

Southland motorists panic

California gas rush

By KRIS SHERMAN
Staff Writer

Frantic motorists jammed open gasoline stations throughout the Southland Friday, snarling traffic on nearby surface streets and occasionally breaking into fist fights during the long wait for a full tank.

The buying surge, which came in the wake of reports that gas will be harder than ever to get during this holiday weekend, mirrored the predicament of fuel-hungry drivers across the nation.

Though government officials, including Gov. Reagan, warned "there is no need for panic," a spot survey by the Federal Energy Office (FEO) showed half of the drivers in gasoline lines already had at least half a tankful.

In the Southland, many motorists said they probably would not have been trying to fill their tanks except for the Automobile Club of Southern California's Fuel Gauge report, issued Thursday, which predicted only 1 per cent of the stations in metropolitan areas will be open Sunday.

Though the same report predicted only 28 per cent of the metropolitan area stations will be closed today, the long lines and "out of gas" signs from last weekend apparently lingered in drivers' minds.

Several motorists said they weren't "topping off" their tanks or even panic buying before what the Automobile Club has said will be "the most gasless Sunday yet" — they merely wanted enough gasoline for a short trip on the long weekend.

Still others said their buying was instigated by fear. "I really don't need to fill up my tank," said one Long Beach woman. "I'm not planning to go anywhere for the next couple of days, but what if there's an emergency and I can't find any gas?"

While much of the panic buying in the Southland had stations "might not" be open over the weekend, motorists in other parts of the nation were dealing with an even more realistic shortage.

Despite efforts by the FEO to ease dealers' anger over short supplies and new regulations, more protest shutdowns were threatened Friday. In the area around Norfolk, Va., hundreds of stations actually did close in what owners said would be a four-day strike.

Officials said hundreds of Norfolk area commuters were left stranded while still others burned up what little fuel they had traveling to Newport News in search of a full tank.

Dave Wilder, president of the Tidewater chapter of the Virginia Gasoline Retailers Association, said a strike by dissident dealers was about 50 per cent effective and could "become 85 to 90 per cent effective" by this morning.

Meanwhile, groups of dealers in Washington, Oregon, California, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Illinois mulled over suggestions they

FBI 'making headway'

Support floods in for Patty Hearst

Combined News Services
HILLSBOROUGH — Ministers, a politician, a bus driver and the father of one of the accused in the Marcus Foster killing are offering themselves as hostages, children are mailing allowance money and thousands of parents are sending their prayers for kidnapped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

A coalition of community action groups—ranging from the American Indian Movement to the National Welfare Rights Organization—has offered to negotiate for release of the 19-year-old coed from the Symbionese Liberation Army.

In Iowa City, Iowa, AIM leader Dennis Banks said he would lead an AIM delegation to help negotiate the release of Miss Hearst. He also urged the SLA not to harm her.

"We will arrive in San Francisco to deal, to make any kind of arrangements that you see fit," Banks said in comments directed at the terrorist group.

The Black Panther Party, which already has given $154,000 in free groceries to the poor, has condemned the kidnapping but offered to help administer the massive food distribution program demanded by the woman's captors.

Auctioneers in Oregon have offered to stage a massive telethon or auction to raise money for the food giveaway.

State officials estimate that giving $70 in food to every needy Californian could cost $400 million. The Hearst family has promised to set up a limited program.

The family received about 600 letters Friday from well-wishers, some of them needy pensioners who vowed to reject the $70 in free groceries. Many school children around the country enclosed small change to help finance the food handout.

The woman's father, Randolph A. Hearst, editor and president of the San Francisco Examiner, said he is not soliciting money and said the donations would be put into a bank or in escrow and probably will be returned to the donors.

One sympathetic letter came from George B. Harris, a senior U.S. District Court judge, and a grandfather of 17-year-old J. Paul Getty III who was kidnapped last year in Rome.

Rev. Jim V. Jones of Ukiah has offered to exchange places with the kidnapped heiress. Rev. Robert Harris, a black minister from Ogden, Utah, said he would go to San Francisco and fast for Miss Hearst. A 37-year-old bus driver in Hartford, Conn., said he'd like to become a hostage.

L.A. Open kidnap threat

United Press International
A telephoned threat of a possible kidnapping involving Jack Nicklaus and other pro golfers at the Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open was disclosed by authorities Friday.

One sergeant and 10 men from the Los Angeles Police Department's Metropolitan Division were deployed around the golf course at the Riviera Country Club and no trouble was reported during the first two days of play.

Cmdr. Pete Hagen, police press relations officers, said it is the custom to have a Metro squad at such events as the L.A. Open.

"We do the same thing if Bob Hope or Bing Crosby is playing," he said. "The caliber of people determines the need for protection. In this case we are aware of no special threats but we don't want anything to happen like this in Los Angeles."

Tournament chairman John C. Cummings reported the threat was made by a telephone caller Wednesday morning, the day before the Open started.

"The caller said there may be some kidnapping," said Cummings. "It was a general threat. Jack Nicklaus' name was mentioned in the threat. We're not concerned and Jack's not concerned."

Another top pro Johnny Miller said he has received threatening telephone calls, apparently unrelated to the general threat.

Comptroller stops funds

Agnew Secret Service protection cut off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Comptroller General Elmer Staats informed the Treasury Friday he would not allow any further use of federal funds to provide Secret Service protection for former Vice President Spiro Agnew.

Staats, an officer of Congress, has the power to halt expenditure of any funds he considers illegal. Staats told Treasury Secretary George Shultz in a letter that further Secret Service protection for Agnew would be illegal, and "future payments made for such purposes will be disallowed by my office."

Staats said the cutoff will begin for payments starting Monday. As of that day, Agnew will no longer be entitled to have Secret Service protection.

Agnew resigned as vice president Oct. 10 while pleading no contest to a federal charge of income tax evasion. Since then, until Dec. 15, the General Accounting Office headed by Staats estimated that Agnew's Secret Service protection has cost the taxpayers nearly $90,000.

Agnew recently flew to the West Coast for a vacation as guest of entertainer Frank Sinatra, and was accompanied by Secret Service agents, prompting Atty. Gen. William Saxbe to question the former vice president's continuing protection.

"If there is no danger, I can see no reason for it," Saxbe said.

Under repeated challenges by the GAO and

Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., the Treasury Department has said President Nixon's decision to provide round-the-clock Secret Service protection for Agnew was "presumptively valid and lawful."

Treasury officials noted the Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., received Secret Service protection for six months after he left the vice presidency in 1969, and have indicated that Agnew would get the same treatment.

A GAO spokesman said he knew of no way anyone could appeal Staats' ruling disavowing financing of Agnew's protection, although the government could force the issue into court simply by continuing to pay for it.

Under normal practice, Staats would go to court to force the "certifying officer" who approved the expenditure to pay the funds out of his own pocket.

The GAO spokesman said Staats had been unable to determine exactly who was the certifying officer in Agnew's case.

Normally, the spokesman said, a disallowal letter is obeyed because certifying officers stand in danger of being hit with personal bills for thousands or millions of dollars if they do not comply.

Moss, who originally brought the issue to the GAO's attention, said Agnew had taken between a dozen and 21 agents with him to California. "This is an outrageous act," he said. "This practice is an affront to every tax-paying American."

L.B. drops Sunday bus fare to dime

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

Buses of the Long Beach Public Transportation Co. will switch to the 10-cent Sunday fare this weekend and will continue that once-a-week program at least through June, a bus company spokesman announced Friday.

William F. Farrell, general manager of the company, said the decision to begin the dime-a-ride system on Sunday was made during a meeting with officials of the county and six other municipalities which run their own bus lines.

The program, he added, is all but formally approved, with the final blessing of the Board of Supervisors expected to come at its regular Tuesday meeting.

Under a tentative agreement approved by supervisors this week, and concluded during Friday's meeting, the county will subsidize the program. The Sunday dime-a-ride system then will be operating throughout the county.

The Southern California Rapid Transit District, which has tested the dime-a-ride program for the past three Sundays, has shown that while the program is cheap and appealing to bus riders, it costs the company revenue. Last Sunday, supervisors were told, the system cost the company, $8,873 in average income.

Farrell explained that the RTD had to increase the number of buses running on Sundays to accommodate customer demand. The RTD, he said, runs about 83 per cent of all mass transit mileage in the county.

The Long Beach bus company is second largest in the county said Farrell, adding that he was enthusiastic about the new program. The Long Beach company covers seven per cent of the transit mileage in the county.

L.B. oil pact nets windfall for state

By BOB SCHMIDT
Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — California will reap a nearly half-million-dollar daily windfall from the Long Beach tidelands as a result of an agreement concluded Friday between the city of Long Beach and the five firms developing the field, a city spokesman has disclosed.

Dep. City Atty. Harold Lingle said the five firms comprising Thums, the combine developing the field, had agreed to nearly double the price they will be paying for each of the approximately 100,000 barrels of oil extracted from the field daily retroactive to Jan. 15. The price, which will fluctuate, will soar to more than $9 per barrel, with the first windfall payment to be received by the city on Feb. 28.

ALL OF the additional revenue will go to the state, since the city of Long Beach already receives the maximum amount it can get — $9 million annually — under the 1964 formula which divided the tidelands revenue between the two governmental entities. Under the 1964 legislation, Long Beach acts as the state's steward and manages the tidelands development.

State Controller Houston Flournoy hailed the agreement, pointing out that the "energy crisis, which has caused a loss to the state's general fund revenues, can also be responsible for additional tidelands fund revenues."

The chairman of the State Lands Commission, which has the overall responsibility of protecting the state's tidelands interests, Flournoy said he hoped the Legislature "will use the additional revenues to appropriate money to such energy-related purposes as mass transit or additional hydro-electric facilities."

KENNETH HALL, California's chief deputy director of finance, also praised the agreement negotiated by the city but said "at the same time, we are concerned if this means higher prices for the consumer."

The windfall, Lingle said, may be only temporary. Oil firms are lobbying intensely in Washington, he said, to have the federal government remove the exemption state and local governments have from Phase 4 controls on crude oil prices.

If that exemption is lifted, and the price rolled back, Lingle acknowledged, the state may have to return the added revenue.

Flournoy said he would resist any effort by the oil companies to have the exemption removed. Last week he sent a telegram to federal energy czar William E. Simon, saying "to remove or reverse California's exempt status would deprive California of an established source of public funds to provide for the needs of its citizens."

THE price increase was indicated late last month when the federal government reaffirmed the state and local government exemption from oil price controls.

The city of Long Beach and the state of California had benefited by the exemption by offering its royalty oil to the highest bidder, receiving bids, in the process, considerably higher than the major firms were then paying for California crude oil.

The two governmental entities receive the royalty oil as part payment for permitting exploration and development of publicly owned lands.

When Union Oil and other major firms stated their willingness to pay higher prices for the royalty oil, the city took the position that that price reflected the true market value of all the oil, and demanded the higher figure from the five members of the Thums combine — Texaco, Exxon, Union, Mobil, and Shell — plus Atlantic-Richfield and Standard, which also have interests in the Long Beach field.

Atlantic-Richfield has agreed, Lingle said, but Standard, which offered $8.09 per barrel for royalty oil in January, has not yet been heard from.

"If we don't hear from Standard promptly," he said, "we will probably serve notice on them that they will be in default if their February check does not reflect the higher price."

Under terms of the agreement, Lingle said, the city will not press for any retroactive higher price prior to Jan. 15, at least until after Feb. 28. He said the agreement came after two weeks of intense negotiations between the city and the oil firms.

I, P-T sports section judged best in Calif.

The sports section of the Independent Press-Telegram is the best in the state, according to the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.

Announcement of the first-place contest selection was made at the association's convention Friday in the Century Plaza Hotel.

Li. Gov. Ed Reinecke presented the winner's plaque to Miles Sines, executive editor of the newspapers.

The I.P.T. sports section was entered in the highest circulation division of the contest. Judging was done on the basis of local appeal, comprehensiveness of coverage, makeup and general appearance.

John Dixon is executive sports editor for the newspapers.

Error caused Skylab re-entry emergency

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON — An improperly positioned switch on their instrument panel forced the Skylab 3 astronauts to resort to an emergency backup procedure during their re-entry into earth's atmosphere last week, the space agency said Friday. Gerald Carr, Edward Gibson and William Pogue were out of range of ground tracking stations at the time and did not report the problem until after they returned to the Johnson Space Center in Houston. Project officials were investigating to see if the trouble resulted from faulty instructions radioed up from the ground or from error on the part of the three astronauts.

Kidnaped girls safe

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. — A state trooper's daughter and her classmate — both teen-agers — were returned apparently unharmed to their families Friday, a day after they were kidnaped by a tattooed man in an automobile. Police later arrested Roger Millsbaugh, 27, a paroled rapist as the prime suspect. The girls were examined by their families' physicians after a truck driver with whom they had hitched a ride flagged down a state police cruiser. Police refused to release details of the girls' escape from their kidnaper.

John Dean autobiography

NEW YORK — Farrar, Straus & Giroux, the publishers of Isaac Bashevis Singer and other famous authors, has nearly completed negotiations toward acquiring rights to a forthcoming, largely autobiographical book by former White House counsel John Dean III, highly placed publishing industry sources reported Friday. The publishers had no comment; nor was there any immediate comment from Dean, a key witness in last year's Senate Watergate hearings. Dean's literary agent has been asking $250,000 for rights to the book.

Quakes jolt four states

An earthquake shook parts of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas Friday afternoon, and three brief earth tremors were felt in the southern half of Arkansas Friday night. No injuries were reported.

British costs up by 37% under Heath

LONDON — The Conservative government said Friday that food prices have soared 53 per cent since Prime Minister Edward Heath took office in mid-1970. A breakdown by the Department of Employment showed all prices have grown an average 37.1 per cent. There were warnings of more big increases, with the price of bread, meat, fish, vegetables and cereals high on the list. Observers said the report could quickly change the focus of the campaign for the Feb. 28 elections. The Conservatives have tried to focus on the need for strong government to deal with situations such as the nationwide coal miners' strike. But Laborite and Liberal candidates have been trying to broaden the campaign by attacking Heath's overall record and his failure to fulfill a 1970 promise to bring prices down.

Israel, Syria renew battle

Syrian and Israeli forces battled with artillery and tank fire on the Golan Heights Tuesday, breaking a two-day lull on the tense northern front. Syria said at least four Israeli soldiers were killed in five hours of fighting. Israel's military command said one Israeli and one Syrian were killed in the fighting which it said began when Syrian troops infiltrated Israeli positions on the northeastern sector of the strategic heights. The fighting broke out as Israeli newspapers reported Israel had rejected American proposals for negotiations seeking the separation of Syrian and Israeli forces.

Bloody war in Philippines

ZAMBOANGA, Philippines — Some 10,000 persons died or were missing in fighting over the past 10 days between Moslem rebels and government troops at Jolo in the Sulu Islands, the Department of Social Welfare reported Friday. The department had no breakdown between the number of dead and missing. More than two-thirds of Jolo city, 620 miles south of Manila, was reported destroyed in the fighting that began Feb. 4. Moslems claim that Christian majority in the Philippines discriminates against them in housing, jobs and other areas and are trying to create a separate Moslem state in the Sulu Islands.

Castro in no rush on detente

MEXICO CITY — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro says he isn't "in any hurry" to improve relations with the U.S. "We can wait 10 years, 20 years," Castro said in an interview in the issue of the Mexican magazine Siempre, released Friday. He also said the U.S. is increasingly losing supporters in its 12-year-old economic blockade of Cuba.

Julie Eisenhower 'her jovial self' after surgery

Combined News Services

Julie Nixon Eisenhower was reported "cheerful—her usual jovial self," by a doctor friend who visited her Friday evening, 24 hours after emergency surgery for removal of a benign ovarian cyst. But her mother and husband said she would spend at least one more night in the hospital.

The medical team attending President Nixon's 25-year-old daughter at Indiana University Medical Center in Indianapolis said she was progressing satisfactorily, although she was experiencing some discomfort and pain considered normal after the 44-minute operation.

Dr. Cory SerVaas, a medical doctor, business associate and friend of Mrs. Eisenhower, took her to the hospital Thursday. She said after visiting with Julie Friday night that there were no complications and the President's daughter was "well and cheerful."

Dr. SerVaas is executive editor and publisher of the Saturday Evening Post, where Julie is a $10,000-a-year associate editor. Dr. SerVaas said she brought a "get well" card signed by the staff.

Joplin

Janis Joplin's California lawyer testified Friday that the singer was very happy during the weeks preceding her death Oct. 4, 1970. Cause had been listed as an accidental overdose of heroin.

"She appeared in good spirits," said the attorney, Robert E. Gordon, at a trial in Manhattan Supreme Court of a claim by the singer's manager for $200,000 from an insurance policy on her life.

Associated Indemnity Corp. of San Francisco has resisted the claim, principally on a contention that the rock singer committed suicide, thus nullifying the policy.

Polygamist

A former Mormon seminary teacher, flanked by his three young wives and two of his children, appeared before a justice of the peace in Nephi, Utah, Friday to answer a charge of bigamy.

Justice of the Peace John Robertson ordered Robert Dean Foster, 48, of Levan, Utah, held in lieu of $10,000 bail pending arraignment next week.

The Utah attorney general's office said Foster divorced his wife, began marrying his seminary students, and was excommunicated for polygamy. He also has refused to support his ex-wife and their 10 children.

Estate

Former U.S. Sen. William H. Benton, who died last March 18, left an estate of $10,936,065, according to an inventory filed in Fairfield, Conn., Probate Court.

About $9 million of the estate is stock in the Encyclopedia Britannica, of which Benton was publisher, and more than $750,000 is in paintings, drawings and his interest in a New York gallery.

Lovelace

Actress Linda Lovelace, star of the film "Deep Throat," appeared in Justice Court in Las Vegas Friday for arraignment on charged of possessing cocaine and amphetamines.

Judge Delwin Potter delayed arraignment until March 13 to allow Los Angeles defense attorney Robert Shapiro additional time to affiliate with a Nevada law firm.

Gov. Reagan will present an honorary award to Bring Crosby Tuesday night at the "American Music Awards" show sponsored by ABC. Reagan's office announced Friday in Sacramento.

Colonel

Col. Travis Gafford, a black military officer prevented last year from becoming a military adviser in Chile because of his race, has now been put in charge of the office that helps select military advisers in Washington.

The Pentagon also said "the word has gotten out" that Defense Secretary James Schlesinger feels officers found practicing racial discrimination should be denied all promotions.

Last year an American officer at the U.S. embassy in Chile turned Gafford down for the position, saying he felt the Chileans would reject Gafford on account of race.

Sue Collins and Vassar Carlton are to marry today. She's 31; he's 61, a widower with four grown daughters and retiring chief justice of the Florida Supreme Court. Says Sue of the May-December relationship:

"Of course we talked about it because it is a few years, but I don't think it will cause any difficulties. He's a fashionable dresser and he's current. He wants to know what's going on. He even told me once he doesn't like to associate with people over 40."

Then she added: "Judges are human, too, you know."

Adventurers

Five lean and sunburned young Canadians proved man's spirit of adventure still lives by finishing a 6,312-mile canoe trip Friday that took them from the wilderness of Canada to the foot of Canal Street in New Orleans.

They braved frostbite, a blizzard below St. Louis, Mo., that dumped 14 inches of snow on them and the tricky current of the Mississippi River in High-water stage. The river caused a collision with a dredge pipe that capsized one of their canoes.

Their voyage began May 28, 1973, at Rocky Mountain House, Alta.

Film star John Wayne, the Hollywood hero of Westerns and war movies, was named Saturday as the Freedoms Foundation top national award winner for his first record, "America, Why I Love Her."

Wayne and 40 other top winners will be honored Monday in ceremonies at the Valley Forge Military Academy, near Philadelphia.

The Foundation has presented awards for 15 years "for constructive words and deeds which support America, suggest solutions to basic problems besetting the nation, contribute to responsible citizenship and inspire love of country."

'Normal' life hard for boy with rare disease

Every month, 4-year-old Tommy McKee undergoes major surgery. Starting soon, doctors say, he will need surgery every two weeks.

Tommy has papilloma, described by doctors as a thousand tiny warts growing in his trachea. Papilloma, caused by a virus for which the child can't produce antibodies, is rare and confined mainly to children.

Doctors at Lutheran Hospital in Denver say Tommy may outgrow it by age 6 or 7, or it could move into both lungs and cause death.

Meanwhile, doctors scrape his trachea about once a month to keep his breathing passages clear.

Tommy had his first surgery in November 1972 and underwent an emergency tracheotomy last summer when the disease grew worse. He now wears a metal enclosure over the hole in his windpipe.

"We're just buying time for Tommy," said his mother, Jay Wilson. "I hope he grows up fast enough to fight this off."

His mother says she wants him to live life as near normal as possible. Last week, he became ill on Monday, had surgery Tuesday and was back in preschool on Thursday.

The youngster's father, Tom McKee of Denver,

Nearly 100 friends, relatives and family members turned out in San Francisco Friday to pay last respects to Artie Samish, the political lobbyist of the 1940s and 1950s who called himself "governor of the California Legislature."

Those attending the mass in the St. Ignace Catholic Church included former State Senator Tom Morey, former Assemblyman Charlie Meyers and Bernard Brady, and Sally Stanford, former San Francisco night-life queen.

Liberace

Thieves raided pianist Liberace's Dallas hotel room during the night and escaped with an estimated $75,000 worth of jewelry and other valuables. He was giving a concert at Southern Methodist University at the time.

In the list of items lost, Liberace included a Mickey Mouse wristwatch he valued at $200, and a Tiffany diamond watch with the title of his theme song, "I'll Be Seeing You," set in diamonds. He assessed it's worth at $35,000.

State claims defendant described tot slaying

By JOHN SHEEHAN
Staff Writer

The prosecution Friday told a Long Beach Superior Court jury it intends to prove that two 18-year-old Los Angeles youths participated in the fatal shooting last Nov. 9 of a 7-month-old infant girl near Poly High School.

In a 20-minute opening statement, Deputy Dist. Atty. Allen Field said evidence—including a voluntary statement by one of the defendants—will prove beyond doubt that Ron Sherman and Johnny Blair participated in slaying of the infant and wounding of 16-year-old Poly coed Portia Howard.

Sherman and Blair are each charged with one count of murder and one of assault with a deadly weapon.

As the defendants sat unmoving before Judge Ernest Kelly, Field told jurors that the defendants, along with two Los Angeles juveniles, came to Long Beach Nov. 9 after Sherman and Blair were rebuffed by several Poly coeds the day before.

Field said that as the youths slowly drove by a McDonald's restaurant in the 1300 block of Atlantic Avenue, they heard what sounded like a gunshot. When they examined their car on a side street, the youths found what appeared to be a bullet hole in one fender, Field said.

"ONE OR both of the defendants then decided to return to McDonald's and get the guy who shot at them," Field said.

As the youths cruised past the 1400 block of Atlantic Avenue, Field said Blair recognized a person who he thought had fired at him as the youth stood near a crowd of students relaxing along a retaining wall near the sidewalk.

It was Blair who fired three shots at the youth, Field said, all of which missed their intended victim.

Instead, Field said, one slug struck a car and the second and third slugs hit 7-month-old Tasha Lucas as she sat in a stroller in front of the wall. One slug struck the infant in the head, Field said, and the other struck her in the foot.

Further, Field continued, one of those slugs slugs then struck Miss Howard in the leg. The coed was treated at St. Mary's Hospital and released several hours later.

FIELD said that it wasn't until the infant's aunt rushed the child into a house that she found the baby had been wounded. The infant was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital.

Field said Blair was arrested an hour later in Los Angeles and admitted under questioning by Long Beach homicide detectives he fired the fatal shots.

Testimony resumes Tuesday when Sgt. C.S. Roberson will continue to explain aerial photos of the neighborhood around Poly taken shortly after the shooting.

Hahn urges county-run lifeguards

Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said Friday he will be meeting shortly with Los Angeles City Mayor Tom Bradley to discuss a merger of lifeguard services provided by the city and the county.

Hahn said the meeting had been requested by Bradley in a letter which in part said, "It seems to me this (lifeguard service) is an activity which should be under the jurisdiction of the county and it offers us a concrete example of what you and I have talked about on many occasions."

At present, Los Angeles City provides lifeguards at San Pedro and Venice. Long Beach and Santa Monica are the only two other coastal cities within county limits that provide their own lifeguards, and the county services the rest of the coastal cities.

Purse stolen from body of traffic victim

A woman pedestrian who was killed Friday night when a car struck her remained unidentified because someone stole her purse while she lay in the street, Long Beach police said.

Officers Tom Clemens and Jim Olds said the woman, identified only as Jane Doe, was struck as she carried a bundle of groceries across Second Street at Falcon Avenue at 7:30 p.m.

She was pronounced dead at St. Mary Medical Center about 10 minutes later, they said. The driver of the car which struck her, Norman Finn, 25, of 20 Ocean Manor Place, told officers he didn't see the woman in the dark. He was not held, pending an accident investigation, police said.

Call hospitals 'disgrace' Vets press sit-in at Cranston office

Associated Press

A group of veterans Friday spent their fourth day barricaded in the Los Angeles offices of Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., to protest what they called the "national disgrace" of the Veterans Administration.

About a dozen veterans—several disabled in the Vietnam war—have been joined by two women supporters.

Eight protestors were on a hunger strike to press their demands for a meeting with Donald Johnson, VA national administrator.

"We'll stay here until we meet with Johnson," said Ron Kovic, a spokesman for the American Veterans Movement. "It's ludicrous for a man who represents veterans across the country to not even make a phone call."

The veterans have discussed their grievances with Cranston, chairman of the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee.

Their demands include improvement of conditions at the Long Beach VA facility, an increase in benefits to veterans, and a meeting with Johnson.

Drug trial of San Pedro's famed 'Bazoom Girl' begun

A 46-year-old onetime striptease dancer known along the San Pedro waterfront as the "Bazoom Girl" Friday stood charged in Long Beach Superior Court with selling marijuana and hashish to undercover sheriff's deputies.

Jennie Lee Wanick, owner of the Sassy Lassie Club, 755 Pacific Ave., is charged with offering to sell marijuana to the deputies in her bar last July 10.

Codefendant Charles Arroyo, 44, manager of the club, is charged with furnishing marijuana to the same deputies the day before. Additionally, both defendants are charged with selling hashish to the deputies last July 19.

Following opening statements in the trial Friday, Judge Pat Mullendore granted a defense motion that all further proceedings be closed to the public.

Prior to Mullendore's decision, Deputy Dist. Atty. Dennis Petty told jurors the transactions took place over the telephone, in Miss Wanick's bar and in her home between June 28 and July 19.

Miss Wanick's attorney, Harry Root, told jurors Miss Wanick's defense will be based on alleged entrapment by the deputies. Root said he will show that the deputies solicited and enticed the defendants to furnish and sell about 11 grams of hashish and 3½ grams of marijuana totally valued at about $110.

Young hobo killed in fall from freight train

BANNING (AP) — After telling two transients to watch how he could hop aboard a moving freight train, a youth who reportedly rode the rails from Ohio was killed Friday when he lost his grip, officials said.

The victim was identified as Timothy Higgins, 22, of Mansfield, Ohio. The youth struck against the train and fell as the freighter was moving at 25 miles an hour. Officials said they didn't know why Higgins had come to California or what he had been doing.

Unpaid?

For the past three years I have been billed by the state of California for unpaid taxes. I have made several trips to the Franchise Tax Board offices in San Jose, Stockton and, most recently, Santa Ana to try to clear up the records. About a year ago, I took all my records to the Santa Ana office, and after an audit of my account, I was told that one of my payments had been credited to the wrong Social Security number. A clerk said I would get a refund of a $144 payment I made in 1970 within 30 to 60 days. I have now waited 10 months and have received no word. Can ACTION LINE help me get my refund? R.C., Long Beach.

WALKING IS GOOD FOR YOUR HEALTH -- BUT IN SOME NEIGHBORHOODS RUNNING SAVES YOUR LIFE

No. According to a spokesman for the California Franchise Tax Board's headquarters in Sacramento, your account is up to date and nobody owes anybody money. Of that $144 payment you made in 1970, $121 was applied to a $171 liability for 1967, $50 of which you had paid in 1969, and the remaining $23 was used to pay your 1969 taxes. The payment originally had been credited to the wrong Social Security number and that's why you continued to receive the bills, but, according to the board spokesman, there was no overpayment on your part.

Vets' extension

Can ACTION LINE find out if President Nixon's proposal on veterans' benefits extends the length of time a person may attend school under the GI bill? N.G., Long Beach.

The proposal would not increase the payment period beyond the current 36 months of eligibility, but it would extend the application deadline to 10 years. A veteran currently must apply for benefits within eight years after his discharge from the service. The 36 months of payments can be used for undergraduate or graduate schooling. The President's proposal also includes a 13.6 per cent increase in the amount of benefits, according to a spokesman for Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Long Beach. These changes have not yet been approved by Congress, but the proposal is not expected to encounter any major opposition, the spokesman said.

Magic answer

I would like to become a member of the Long Beach Mystics, but I don't know how to go about it. Do you have to be a certain age to join and do you have to be a boy? L.S., Wilmington.

The Long Beach Mystics, a group of young magicians, is open to boys and girls between the ages of 8 and 21. Membership tryouts are held at each meeting on the last Friday of the month at 7:30 p.m. To find out the location of the next meeting, call the club's president, Bill Smith, at the Magic Shop, 10919 Los Alamitos Blvd., Los Alamitos, 598-1665. Prospective members must be able to perform at least a few simple tricks. If you haven't yet devised your own routine, you can buy some ready-made tricks and pick up a few pointers at The Magic Shop. Or you might want to enroll in one of the beginner's magic classes at the shop. The six-week course, which costs $25, is taught by Stan Allen, a former president of the Long Beach Mystics.

Drive

The entrance to my driveway is so narrow that when cars are parked on both sides of it, I can't get my automobile into the driveway. I would like to widen the access area or pay to have it done, but I've been told that even though I own my home, I can't change the driveway entrance. Is this true? R.J., Long Beach.

The entrance can be widened, but the work must be done by a licensed cement contractor and a city permit must be obtained. In Long Beach, driveways can be no wider than 20 feet on your property with an additional 4 feet permitted at the curb. If your driveway entrance currently is less than 24 feet across, your cement contractor can get a permit for the work from the Long Beach city engineer's office, 205 W. Broadway, Room 502. If you want to widen the entrance beyond the 24-foot limit, you'll have to obtain a zoning exemption from the Long Beach Planning Department.

Industrial output drop worst in over 2 years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industrial output dropped sharply by eight-tenths of one per cent in January, the second consecutive month of decline and the sharpest plunge in output in more than two years, the government reported Friday.

The government's industrial production index had declined six-tenths of one per cent in December as the nation's industry began to slow down following the big boom in industrial output earlier in 1973.

The energy shortage has been blamed in part for the slide in industrial output, especially in the auto industry where big cars have been a glut on the market.

The Federal Reserve Board, which compiles

the index, said auto assemblies were cut back 15 per cent in January to an annual rate of 6.9 million units, with February production scheduled for about the same rate.

It said there were further reductions in electric and gas consumption by residential and commercial users in January.

Production of household appliances and nondurable consumer goods also was off in January.

However, steel production and output of business equipment remained at near record levels.

The steep decline was likely to be received as an ill omen by the Nixon administration, which has pledged to avoid a recession in 1974.

The January decline was the steepest since a one per cent drop in the index in August of 1971.

Wholesale prices soaring Meany rips price-control policy

Combined News Services

MIAMI BEACH — AFL-CIO President George Meany said Friday the 3.5 per cent rise in wholesale prices in January demonstrates "the complete bankruptcy of the administration's so-called price controls program."

"The price lags on food and fuel—basic costs of every American family—are astronomically high and there's no relief in sight," Meany declared. The labor leader is here preparing for the winter meetings of the AFL-CIO Executive Council, which begins Monday.

Meany said that in the last three months, wholesale prices have zoomed at an alarming annual rate of 32.3 per cent.

"The living standards of American workers are being continuously undermined. Workers must be free to bring their wages in line with the cost of living," Meany said.

"Today's statistics prove—if any further proof was necessary—the complete bankruptcy of the administration's so-called price controls program."

Meanwhile, in Washington, Bureau of Labor Statistics figures indicated that wholesale prices took their second-biggest monthly leap on record in January as the booming inflation spread from food and fuel to most parts of the economy.

From toys to machinery to chemicals and to many other products, the picture was the same: sharply higher prices for goods sold one step away from the consumer.

THE bureau reported Friday that wholesale prices jumped by a seasonally adjusted 3.1 per cent last month, presaging sharply higher retail prices for inflation-weary consumers in the weeks ahead.

The increase was exceeded only by the record 6.2 per cent runup in wholesale prices last August. Computed on an annual basis, by multiplying January's rise by 12, inflation at wholesale rose 37.2 per cent last month, a figure even larger than that Meany quoted on a quarterly basis. Although Meany did not indicate how he arrived at the 3.5 per cent rate of increase figure for January, the bureau report confirmed the one he used to indicate the rate of quarterly increase.

Industrial commodities increased by 2.3 per cent, the bureau reported, farm products and processed foods and feeds rose 5.1 per cent, and consumer finished foods, 2.8 per cent.

At the same time, the Federal Reserve Board reported that industrial production during January fell off eight-tenths of one per cent, the sharpest drop in more than two years.

The energy crisis was blamed in part for the decline, especially in the auto industry where production of big cars has been cut back sharply.

Herbert Stein, chairman of President Nixon's

Council of Economic Advisers, noted that wholesale prices of industrial products other than fuels have been rising more rapidly in recent months.

"To a substantial but unmeasured extent this results from higher costs of fuel used in industrial production," he said.

But Stein conceded there is strong inflationary pressure still at work outside the food and fuel sectors. He said it called for caution in considering moves to stimulate the economy and create jobs.

In the past three months, the report said, wholesale prices soared by a record 32.3 per cent. In the 12 months ending in January, they went up 20.8 per cent, second highest rate on record.

The bureau said that fuels accounted for almost 40 per cent of the January rise in industrial commodities. And that wasn't as bad as the increase in the previous two months.

Refined petroleum products were up 7.7 per cent, chiefly because of higher prices for gasoline and residual fuels. Crude oil prices jumped 22 per cent. Prices of coal, electric power and coke were also higher.

The bureau gave this picture of individual price rises:

Farm products — Eggs up 3.8 per cent, livestock 15.4 per cent, milk 4.2 per cent, grains 8.9 per cent, fresh and dried fruits and vegetables 7.5 per cent.

Processed foods and feeds — Cereal and bakery products up 3.9 per cent, meats, poultry and fish 7.8 per cent, dairy products 2 per cent, processed fruits and vegetables 1.1 per cent.

Other commodities — Apparel up 1.2 per cent, shoes 1.1 per cent, industrial chemicals 2.2 per cent, tires and tubes 1.5 per cent, pulp and paper products 3.3 per cent, iron and steel 2.3 per cent, non-ferrous metals 1.6 per cent, machinery and equipment 1.1 per cent, toys, sporting goods, small arms, ammunition 1.6 per cent, tobacco product 3.7 per cent and furniture 1.3 per cent.

Inflation blamed as delinquent loans up

New York Times Service

NEW YORK — The number of persons not paying their installment loans on time increased by 19 per cent in November and December, partly because of inflation and the slowdown in the economy.

At the end of the period, the percentage of delinquent loans rose to 2.53 per cent of those outstanding on Dec. 31, up from 2.12 per cent at the end of October, a survey by the American Bankers Association disclosed Friday. A loan is considered delinquent when a payment is past due for more than 30 days.

While the overall percentage is low, it is nevertheless the highest delinquency rate yet published by the bankers association since it began making bimonthly surveys in September, 1963.

If these figures hold true for the entire banking system, it would indicate that some $1.75 billion of the $69.2 billion of bank installment loans were behind schedule in payment toward the end of 1973. The bankers association's statistics indicate loan delinquencies may have increased about $300 million from September-October to November-December.

According to William Ford, chief economist of the association, the increase resulted partly from the normal rise that seems to occur each Christmas season. Over the five-year period from 1968 through 1972, the delinquency ratio rose an average of 24 basis points (hundredths of a percentage point) during November-December, he said.

Perhaps two-fifths of the increase, however, can be attributed largely to adverse economic factors such as the overall slowdown in the economy, rising unemployment, inflation and the oil shortage, Ford said.

"The gasoline shortage has been particularly troublesome because it has triggered sharp declines in the resale value of cars, particularly large ones, and recreational vehicles, and that further compounds the delinquency problem," he explained.

"It's too early to determine if the increase in delinquency ratios signifies a lasting trend," Ford said, adding that it will be "particularly interesting" to see what happens in the January-February period.

The percentage of delinquent auto loans moved up to 1.66 per cent of total borrowings from 1.29 per cent, a 29 per cent increase.

The number of repossession of autos for every 1,000 outstanding loans was "significantly higher" during November and December, Ford said. He found this important because auto repossessions usually drop off during the last two months of the year.

The delinquency rate for mobile home loans rose 30 per cent. Recreational vehicle loan delinquencies climbed 59 per cent and home improvement loans, 45 per cent.

The bank group surveys a nationwide sample of 600 banks of different sizes to calculate trends in installment loan payment trends.

Nixon 'won't budge' on tapes cutoff

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press

KEY BISCAYNE — Demanding anew that Watergate investigations be swiftly ended, the White House drew a firm line Friday against special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski's "continued and seemingly unending incursions" into President Nixon's files.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler stressed that Nixon won't budge from his refusal to give Jaworski more Watergate tapes, but said the President doesn't want a confrontation with the prosecutor and doesn't intend to fire him.

Nixon's chief Watergate attorney, James D. St. Clair, said in a statement that Jaworski's request for 40 additional tapes plus documents could delay grand jury deliberations "many months."

ALTHOUGH Ziegler said St. Clair had not listened to the 40 tapes, the lawyer said in his statement that "a careful review of this request led me to the conclusion that this new material was at best only corroborative of or cumulative to evidence already before the grand jury and therefore was not essential to its deliberations."

"The President believes he has furnished sufficient evidence to determine whether probable cause exists that a crime has been committed and, if so, by whom," St. Clair said, adding:

"Under these circumstances the President determined that continued and seemingly unending incursions into the confidentiality of presidential communications was unwarranted."

Jaworski, who reported the President's refusal in a letter to the Senate Judiciary Committee on Thursday, has not said whether he now will seek to subpoena the White House tapes and documents. He declined comment Friday on the White House statement.

Indications were that some negotiations between the special prosecutor's office and the White House were continuing.

ST. CLAIR said Nixon had told him to continue his private contacts with Jaworski and "to cooperate fully, consistent with the principles of confidentiality of presidential conversations, with a view toward bringing this matter to a prompt and just conclusion."

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said the Judiciary Committee is to meet Tuesday to vote on whether to call Jaworski to testify.

Some members have indicated they want to question him about the White House's refusal to hand over the material.

Byrd, a committee member, told newsmen he had talked by telephone with Chairman James O. Eastland, who is in Mississippi, and was advised a meeting would be held Tuesday to let the members vote.

Nixon later turned over to Jaworski, Cox's successor.

At an hour-long news briefing here, where the President is relaxing between a pair of speeches to Southern audiences, Ziegler avoided giving firm assurances that Jaworski would not be fired.

But afterwards he told a reporter that there was "no intention or contemplation whatsoever" of firing the prosecutor and that Nixon stands by a commitment that he would never discharge Jaworski without consulting Democratic and Republican congressional leaders.

In discussing Nixon's refusal to turn over the additional tapes, Ziegler said, "The position we hold is not a position based on the desire or intent to move to a position of confrontation" with Jaworski.

The presidential spokesman refused to affirm or deny that Jaworski had promised the White House he would seek no additional tapes if he were given those now being withheld. Ziegler said St. Clair advised him to remain silent on that question. Responding to another inquiry, Ziegler said Nixon was confident there are no new gaps in any of the White House tapes.

Dean ban as witness sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a highly unusual move, a federal judge heard testimony behind closed doors Friday to decide whether key Watergate witness John W. Dean III may testify against his former White House colleague, Dwight L. Chapin.

After the 90-minute hearing, U. S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell took under advisement Chapin's claim that his attorney-client relationship with Dean, former White House counsel, should bar Dean from testifying as a prosecution witness at his April 1 trial on four charges of lying to a federal grand jury.

Gesell also strongly suggested that President Nixon, Vice President Gerald R. Ford and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott quit talking about Dean and questioning his credibility.

"Obviously, I can't direct the President or the vice president or Sen. Scott to cease saying what they wish on this matter," said Gesell. "But I hope every effort will be made to stop discussion of matters before this court."

Gesell also chastised special prosecutor Leon Jaworski in open court for publicly endorsing Dean's credibility, and ordered the press and public to leave before Chapin testified on the attorney-client privilege issue. Dean was not called to testify.

An aide to Gesell said the judge had held only one closed hearing before in his six-year judicial career. That was in June 1971 on the Pentagon Papers case in which national security issues were at stake.

In ordering the closed session, Gesell said testimony might involve "intimate discussions" between the two men that could prejudice Chapin's case if made public.

Before closing the hearing, Gesell refused to order that a transcript of a Nixon-Dean conversation last March 13 be provided to Chapin so his lawyers could try to challenge Dean's over-all credibility as a witness.

Gesell also denied a Chapin motion to dismiss his four-count indictment because Jaworski, in a nationwide television interview Feb. 3, had vouched for Dean's credibility and veracity. But he called Jaworski before him and sternly told him not to do it again.

Impeach probers meet on Ellsberg

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press

Prosecutors in the Ellsberg burglary case met Friday with representatives of the House Judiciary Committee, which is seeking information for its impeachment investigation.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Stephen Trotter said that he had met with investigators Richard Gill and John Kennalton following a brief hearing in the case.

"They are collecting evidence related to their inquiry," Trotter said. He did not elaborate on what points were discussed.

In another development, Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer decided to continue on the assumption that a hearing will be held Feb. 25. That is the date on which President Nixon has been subpoenaed to testify.

Attorneys had mentioned that the hearing might have to be postponed because the court in Washington still had not set a date for a hearing on whether the President will be required to honor the subpoena. Ringer, who discussed the matter with attorneys in chambers, apparently saw no reason to change the date yet.

The judge also granted several motions for attorneys for David Young, giving access to prosecution documents affecting the case against him.

GM recalls cars, trucks

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. is recalling nearly 1.2 million passenger cars and light duty trucks equipped with a single diaphragm brake booster.

They are seeking some 1,200 vehicles which officials said may have defective vacuum power brake housings.

About 85 per cent of the vehicles involved are in owners' hands, GM officials said.

The recalled units include:

- 1973 and 1974 intermediate and full size Chevrolets.
- 1973 intermediate Buicks, Pontiacs and Oldsmobiles.
- 1973 and 1974 compact models of Nova, Camaro, Ventura, Firebird, Omega and Apollo.

16,000 workers facing Ford layoff

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. said Friday it will lay off more than 16,000 workers over the next three weeks, and 1,800 will be laid off indefinitely due to production adjustments caused by lagging new car sales.

Involved are one week layoffs at six assembly plants and six manufacturing plants, said Ford vice president Donald Bastian.

Indefinite layoffs will include 900 Los Angeles big-car assemblers beginning Feb. 25, and 600 assemblers in Atlanta the next week. Another 300 indefinite layoffs are scattered throughout the Ford factory system.

One-week layoffs beginning Feb. 18 include 1,300 assemblers in St. Louis; 1,550 in Minneapolis-St. Paul and 1,600 in Wixom, Mich. Manufacturing layoffs that week are 2,025 in Cleveland, 875 in Dearborn, Mich.; 450 in Nashville, and 725 scattered among four other plants.

Beginning Feb. 25, Ford will lay off, for one week, 1,200 assemblers in Los Angeles; 1,250 in Louisville; and 1,800 in Wixom, as well as 1,400 in Mahwah, N.J. for two weeks.

On March 4, Ford will lay off 1,800 at St. Louis.

Ford said it will recall 5,400 temporarily laid off workers — 3,400 in Mahwah, and 2,000 in Los Angeles.

BofA cuts prime rate to 9 pct.

NEW YORK (AP) — More major banks, including the nation's two largest, announced Friday they were cutting their prime lending rates to 9 per cent from 9 1/2 per cent.

Money analysts said the 9 per cent rate was certain to become industry-wide, and they also predicted further cuts soon.

Among the banks lowering their prime rates to 9 per cent were Bank of America, the nation's largest; First National City, second; Morgan Guaranty Trust, fifth largest; Mellon Bank, 13th; and Marine Midland, 16th in size. On Thursday, Banker's Trust, seventh largest, and several smaller banks took the same action.

THE PRIME rate is the base lending rate banks charge their largest corporate customers. It is tied directly tied to small business and consumer loans, but frequently is an indicator of the nation's loan and interest situation in general.

The money analysts said that the main reason for the slide of the prime rate since the first of the year is a loosening of the nation's money supply by the Federal Reserve Board. This, say the analysts, makes more loan funds available.

Another factor, says the analysts, is a lessening of loan demands from large corporations as the economy slows down into what some economists say is a recession that already has begun.

The slide of the prime rate is the exact reversal of what occurred in 1973, the analysts note, when unprecedented demand by corporations for loans for expansion created a shortage of loan funds.

Dean of Cal. delegation Rep. Holifield to retire

By GIL BAILEY
Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Montebello, a power in the House of Representatives for more than 30 years and the senior and most powerful Californian in Congress, said Friday he will not run for re-election.

The 70-year-old Holifield said he hoped now to be able to spend time with his four daughters, 15 grandchildren, and two great grandchildren in California.

"There is a time for everything and it is our time now," said Mrs. Cam Holifield, the congressman's wife, who has also served as Holifield's congressional office manager over the years, in a three-hour interview last week before the announcement.

IN THAT interview Holifield, chairman of the powerful Government Operations Committee and his wife reviewed the congressman's 16 terms in the House, the battles won, the friends made, the six presidents he knew and the legislation he passed. And when Holifield spoke, he always spoke in terms of "we," referring to his wife.

The battles were many and some were historic, as Holifield after World War II fought for and won civilian control over atomic energy, in the 1950s fought and won the battle against the Dixon-Yates contract for government subsidies to a private power company, and as a senior legislator, presided over the birth of three cabinet level departments—the Department of Defense, the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Department of Transportation.

Holifield's first battle came in 1943, when as a freshman representative he defended the rights of Japanese-Americans, then interned in what has been called the "American concentration camps."

For his efforts Holifield was termed a "Jap lover" by a Los Angeles evening newspaper which threatened and then waged a campaign to defeat him.

REP. CHET HOLIFIELD
Quitting After 16 Terms

HOLIFIELD made it clear in the interview with the Washington Bureau of the Independent, Press-Telegram that, although he faced a tough primary fight, his retirement was not because he was afraid of that fight.

"I could have won," he said, trotting out facts and figures to support his contention.

And he also made it clear that his job in Congress is not over because he will leave at the end of the year.

"I'm steering the Federal Energy Agency through Congress," he said.

But Holifield, silver of hair and mustache, seated in his large Rayburn House Office Building suite, surrounded by pictures of the famous, spent most of his time discussing his three decades in Congress.

He ranked the presidents he had known:

"HARRY TRUMAN comes first. Truman could make decisions."

"Harry Truman was the greatest. He was humble and friendly and unexpectedly showed a grasp of history and the ability to make decisions. He just had guts that's all."

"The record of Franklin Roosevelt in putting the nation back to work after the depression makes him second, but when I knew him he was occupied with World War II and the decline of his physical powers makes it hard to judge."

"Lyndon Johnson was one of the most dynamic men I've ever met. His knowledge of how to get legislation through the Congress was the greatest ... too bad the Vietnam war came along and drove him out of office. I saw him with tears streaming down his face, as he said we had to stay there to save Asia ...

"John Kennedy was here only a short time. He gave the people inspiration and lift but he did not have the legislative skills."

"Dwight Eisenhower was in my opinion a likeable person and an attractive personality. He was a real amateur when it came to working with Congress."

"I'D RATHER not evaluate Richard Nixon. He is still in the White House and still has great responsibilities and he is in great trouble."

Holifield added, "I'd like to give him (Nixon) credit for making the decision to build the liquid metal fast breeder reactor. It will give us 100 times more energy from each gram of uranium."

Nuclear power is one of Holifield's fascinations, dating back to the days when he fought for civilian control of atomic energy.

He helped push through the controversial decision to build the hydrogen bomb.

"We exploded a device after 18 months of research. The Russians exploded their bomb nine months later. If the Soviets had exploded the bomb first the shape and history of the world would have been changed," he said.

IN RECENT years Holifield has pushed for the development of atomic energy as a power source. He and Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Long Beach, who is also retiring as a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, are recognized as the two top congressional experts on nuclear power although their advocacy has resulted in criticism from Ralph Nader.

"Hosmer and I put together the effective development of nuclear energy," said Holifield, adding that he expects the nation to have 1,000 nuclear

Reinecke puts case to voter

By LEE MARGULIES
Associated Press

LT. Gov. Ed Reinecke said Friday he will stay in the race for governor even if he is indicted during the campaign for possible illegal acts stemming from an ITT antitrust case.

Reinecke traveled to Washington, D. C., earlier this week to try to get his name cleared by the special Watergate prosecutor's office. The attempt failed even though he offered to take a lie detector test, Reinecke said.

"I can wait no longer," Reinecke told the California Newspaper Publishers Association in Los Angeles. He continued:

"As of this moment, I am taking my case to the people of the state of California. I am in the race to stay. And I can honestly say I prefer to have them—the people of California—make the final determination of whether I am entitled to their trust and confidence for the next four years."

At a news conference later, Reinecke said an indictment now will only make him campaign harder.

"I don't see that a wrongful accusation should keep a man from running for public office," he said.

Reinecke told the publishers he offered to take a lie detector test but said he didn't know yet whether Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski will take him up on it.

But he said the official clearance he asked for was not granted because the investigation is still going on.

Reiterating his claim that he's innocent of any wrongdoing, Reinecke said he is very disappointed in the special prosecutor's office and will now take his case to the people. He said he will hold a news conference next week to provide the chronological details of his involvement in the case.

Reinecke and former U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell are reportedly under investigation for possible perjury before the Senate Judiciary Committee in 1972.

The two men have said they discussed an offer of $400,000 from International Telephone & Telegraph Co. to help pay for the GOP national convention. But there have been differing accounts on whether that conversation occurred before or after the July 31, 1971, settlement of the Justice Department antitrust case against ITT that was favorable to the company.

Mitchell has said Reinecke did not tell him about the ITT offer until after the settlement. Reinecke has given several accounts, but says now he told Mitchell about it before the settlement.

Ted said unlikely to seek Demo nomination in 1976

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is saying privately to his closest political associates that it is extremely unlikely that he will run for president in 1976.

Kennedy has said repeatedly over the last six months that he felt reluctant to make the race. But now, with the pressures mounting upon him to run, he is expressing his views in stronger terms.

Nevertheless, some visitors to his Capitol Hill office are going away with the impression that he is already in the race. According to Kennedy staff members, they come to see the senator because they desperately want him to run and, when he says only that he intends to keep his options open until late 1975, they convince themselves that he is encouraging them.

Thus, after a two-hour luncheon last Thursday with Harold Willens, who raised money in 1968 for former Sen. Eugene R. McCarthy and in 1972 for Sen. George McGovern, Kennedy felt that he had been even-handed with a man whom he did not know well.

But when Willens returned to California and told his fund-raising colleagues that he hoped and believed that Kennedy was already in the race, the senator and his staff were astonished and somewhat irritated by that interpretation.

Kennedy said within the last week that the illness of his 12-year-old son, Teddy, who had a leg amputated because of cancer, is the strongest factor militating against any candidacy.

But his associates suggest that that is only the most recent explanation that Kennedy has supplied to buttress his reluctance to seek the presidency. Among the others they cite are a fear of assassina-

Ford denies '76 candidacy

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Vice President Gerald R. Ford, winding up a three-day swing through the Midwest, Friday denied that his recent, expanded travels have anything to do with running for the presidency in 1976.

"I am not a candidate and I have no intention of being a candidate for any office in 1976," he said. This, he added, included the presidency and the vice presidency.

Ford, in the city of his birth to address a $100-per-plate GOP fund-raising dinner Friday night, met reporters after completing a briefing at the Strategic Air Command headquarters near here.

FORD coupled his disavowal of presidential ambitions with a firm defense of President Nixon's handling of the Watergate matter and a sharp criticism of Congress for inaction on the President's legislative program.

"I am confident that President Nixon can restore confidence in his government," he said. Ford cited a recent Louis Harris poll which he said showed that the President has the confidence of more people than the Congress.

The Harris poll, published last Monday, reported that 69 per cent of those questioned gave Congress a negative rating—the lowest ever recorded for that body by Harris. However, the same poll gave Nixon's overall job rating only one percentage point more than that of Congress. The President received a 68 per cent negative vote, also an all time low for the President in a Harris poll.

"The present Congress' batting record—its score card—for 1973 and thus far in 1974 shows not very much action," he said. "Congress needs some action and motion."

Ford said the administration is "making some real headway in the gasoline shortage situation." He said the shortage was far more serious in the eastern states than in the Midwest and Far West.

He said energy chief William Simon has directed that oil companies refine more gasoline and less fuel oil "and I think we can look forward to increased allocations in the months ahead."

"I doubt personally that there will be gasoline rationing," he said.

Ford, escorted by a convoy of police cars, was taken a short distance from the downtown area to stop at a vacant lot which was the site of his family home at the time of his birth.

Romana Banuelos quits Treasury job

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Romana Acosta Banuelos, highest ranking Spanish-American in the Nixon administration, has resigned as treasurer of the United States, Treasury Department officials said Friday.

Mrs. Banuelos, the sixth woman to hold the post, had been treasurer for about three years. Her signature appears in the lower left hand corner on paper currency printed since she took office.

BEFORE taking the federal post, Mrs. Banuelos was head of Romana's Mexican Food Products Inc. in Gardena, Calif. The firm started 27 years ago as a snack stand and mushroomed into a $5 million-a-year business. Her nomination ran into trouble in the Senate when it was disclosed federal immigration agents had apprehended 36 illegal Mexican aliens working in her plant. One senator suggested at the time that the raid was staged by the Immigration Service to demonstrate to Congress the need for more funds.

Mrs. Banuelos said she had assumed that all 300 of her workers were either U.S. citizens or foreign nationals with valid work permits. Despite the flap, her nomination breezed through the Senate with virtually no opposition.

Mrs. Banuelos once said in an interview that appointment of a woman as Treasurer "is a tradition that should be followed."

Simon's aide says rationing is avoidable

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Deputy federal energy chief John C. Sawhill said Friday the energy crisis was "here to stay," but he predicted that gasoline rationing probably still could be avoided.

Contradicting remarks by federal budget Director Roy L. Ash, Sawhill, an aide to energy czar William Simon, said in a prepared speech for the National Management Association here that energy shortages would not end "next week, next month or next year—and that means no one is going to be able to legislate it away."

Ash said Tuesday that the energy crisis was of "critical dimensions" at the moment, but that it will be solved in "a matter of months."

Sawhill also said it might not even be desirable for the United States to 4 Nixon cars crowd in gas line

KEY BISCAIYNE (UPI)—Four White House cars pulled up to the head of the line of autos waiting for gasoline Friday at a service station near President Nixon's villa.

Attendees quickly explained to the drivers of the 15 cars waiting in line that the cars were from the White House, and that someone had called in advance to ask that they be taken care of.

Station operator Sergio J. Diaz said he made special arrangements to give the White House cars quick service after being alerted they were coming. He said the White House is a regular customer.

None of the other motorists waiting for gas protested. The station was also giving fill-ups to other cars.

teer hostage is Oscar J. Little, the father of SLA member Russell Little charged with the cyanide-bullet assassination of Oakland School Supt. Marcus Foster last Nov. 6.

Little said he was leaving Pensacola, Fla., for the San Francisco Bay area, to offer himself to the SLA, but he had not arrived by Friday afternoon.

In Reno, Thomas Weaver withdrew Friday from the race for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate and offered himself as hostage for Miss Hearst.

An FBI official said Friday night that agents were "making headway" in the search for Miss Hearst.

Charles Bates, special agent in charge of the FBI investigation, told newsmen outside the Hillsborough mansion of her father, "I have no definite information as to where she is." He did not amplify on his statement

BUS FARES

Under the Sunday dime-a-ride system, Farrell explained, a passenger boarding a Long Beach bus will pay the driver a dime. Senior citizens won't need their passes on Sundays, he added.

"There are no zone limits," said Farrell. "That dime will take him as far as that bus goes. If a passenger rides two buses, it'll cost him two dimes."

Farrell said the program would be administered through the county's Road Department. Under terms of the Long Beach company's contract with the county, he added, the county will reimburse company losses of up to $2,235 each week.

A provision of the contract, said Farrell, man-become self-sufficient in energy, a goal proclaimed by President Nixon.

SUCH FACTORS as capital investment and availability of cheaper foreign oil will determine "not only the success of our efforts to achieve energy independence, but the desirability in itself of becoming totally self-sufficient," he said.

Both Sawhill and White House domestic adviser Kenneth Cole played down the prospects of gasoline rationing Friday.

The Federal Energy Office, meanwhile, clarified an earlier order banning service station discrimination among customers. Service stations must treat everyone alike, whether a regular customer or not, except where a station has an established practice of taking care of the needs of commercial accounts or other bulk users.

Dealers around the country were threatening to sell their gasoline supplies as quickly as possible and close their stations to protest the antidiscrimination rule and FEO failure to act on their request for permission to raise prices to reflect reduced allocations.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, meanwhile, issued previously announced new regulations allowing independent truck drivers to pass through to shippers their higher diesel fuel costs since May 15, 1973, in the form of higher freight rates.

THESE RATE boosts can exceed, but not be claimed in addition to, the 6 per cent surcharge the ICC allowed the truckers last week.

Tempers flare

Calm and serenity are among the victims of the fuel shortage. This driver at a Chicago service station Friday screams and waves his fist at other motorists blocking his way when he tried to turn into the station.

pump all their gas and then shut down.

California dealers, meeting in Fresno Thursday, said they will take a vacation March 22 unless they are allowed a 25 per cent gross profit, the standard before controls took effect last June.

Though a group of Southland dealers had previously promised a shutdown in this area Feb. 28, Art Paul, vice president of the 300-member Southern California Gasoline Retailers Association, said he would ask his members if they wanted to wait and join the statewide protest next month.

In answer to the dealers' cries, FEO deputy administrator John C. Sawhill dispatched teams of investigators to 20 states to assist local and state officials in trying to ease the pinch.

Sawhill said "a more equitable distribution of gasoline" was the aim of the FEO in meetings planned with state governors and others.

If you're tanked up you're out of line

To paraphrase a noted cartoonist's words, "Happiness is a full tank."

And Friday, with gasoline becoming increasingly more difficult to obtain at Southland service stations, happiness entailed long lines, traffic tie-ups and fisticuffs.

AS MOTORISTS joined already long lines of cars awaiting their turn at the gasoline pumps, some stations — their supplies depleted — began to close, leaving drivers still waiting for gasoline.

"We ran out of gas in an hour and 10 minutes this morning," said Pat Mordoni, a Glendale operator. "There were about 20 cars out there when the pumps went dry and the drivers didn't believe us."

Meanwhile, police blamed a rush-hour traffic jam on the Santa Ana Freeway on a lineup of cars at a Texaco self-service station. Officers said the line stretched so far back it blocked the freeway off-ramp.

"They're panicky. They're ornery," Nardoni said of the frantic motorists. "I had to separate six fights. A guy pulls in front of another guy to get ahead in line. They start to cuss one another."

As vignettes of the shortage and panic buying appeared throughout the Southland, everyone seemed to have his own way of handling the problem.

"I MUST have passed 30 stations with their signs out before I found one open," said one driver, who was late to work because he wouldn't give up his quest for a full tank.

In Pacific Palisades, one dealer found lines so long outside his station that he set up his own rationing plan.

Pat Stark, who owns an ARCO station on Sunset Boulevard, said he started out limiting sales to $3 per customer. When the lines did not shorten, he erected a sign telling customers he would sell only to those with an odd-numbered license plate — corresponding to the odd numbered day of the month.

He said some of the customers began arguing among themselves and then with him. When drivers started fighting with Stark, he called police, took down the sign and went back to the first-come, first-served system. "People in California just do not want rationing," he concluded.

IN LONG BEACH, where police said traffic was congested "around every open station in the city," there were few instances of "real trouble," officers said.

However, George Williams, president of the Lerner Oil Company, complained bitterly to the Independent, Press-Telegram after a policeman allegedly told the manager at one of his stations it would be shut down because of the traffic bottleneck.

Williams said he finally straightened the situation out with Lt. Bob Tally, who sent an officer to direct traffic near the station at Seventh Street and Magnolia Avenue. "We're not going to close anybody's business," Tally said, "we only want to keep things under control."

Police said said motorists were "generally orderly," forming their own lines and attempting to stay out of the regular traffic flow.

Other desperate drivers shelled out 65.9 cents a gallon for premium gasoline at the Two Guys Service Station, 2270 Bellflower Blvd. Though there may have been other instances of high prices at Long Beach area stations, only the Two Guys prices were reported to the I.P.T.

An attendant at the station confirmed they were selling only premium and that the price was 65.9.

Of all the hapless and harried search for petroleum Friday, one incident in Los Angeles had to provide comic relief for at least a few motorists.

Police said that for a time, 1,400 employees couldn't get out of a parking lot because the entrance was surrounded by two rows of idling cars, which completely ringed the block.

The object of the car ring was, of course, gasoline — a service station in the parking lot. The ironic location: The Union Oil Company building.

Fire rages after gas line blast

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A natural gas pipeline exploded near the Yolo Causeway on busy Interstate 80 Friday, forcing closure of the highway and sending spectacular orange and red flames 150 to 200 feet into the air.

Lawrence Valine, chief of the West Sacramento Fire Department, and other authorities at the scene said they knew of no deaths or injuries.

Williams said he finally straightened the situation out with Lt. Bob Tally, who sent an officer to direct traffic near the station at Seventh Street and Magnolia Avenue. "We're not going to close anybody's business," Tally said, "we only want to keep things under control."

Judge throws out Army 'offensive' drug appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army appealed an adverse federal court ruling against its European drug control program Friday on grounds it would create "utter chaos," but a judge called the appeal "offensive" to the court and summarily threw it out.

Army lawyers submitted the appeal, along with a 5,000-word affidavit from Gen. Michael S. Davison, the U.S. Army commander in Europe, late Friday afternoon to U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell.

Legal sources said Gesell took just 45 minutes to read the documents and issue an order that said "it appearing to the court that the affidavit filed is offensive under the standards of rule 12-F of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, the motion is hereby denied and the affidavit is stricken."

Rule 12-F gives the courts power to throw out "from any pleading any insufficient defense or any redundant, immaterial, impertinent or scandalous matter."

Gesell ruled the drug program unconstitutional four weeks ago. Among activities he found illegal were the Army's use of strip-down searches of soldiers' body cavities, midnight inspections of barracks, persecution of soldiers for "associating" with known drug users, and certain other practices.

Gesell could not be reached for an exact explanation of the order, and lawyers for both the Army and for the American Civil Liberties Union, which brought the original suit seeking to have the drug program declared unconstitutional, declined comment.

Davison alleged that enforcement of Gesell's order suspending the drug program, issued last week, "will do irreparable harm to the combat readiness" of U.S. Army forces in Europe.

He also contended the order could force him to permit known drug users to retain pilot status and to handle nuclear weapons.

U.S. urged to keep troops in Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two top State Department officers Friday defended the United States' strategic position in Europe and said now was not the time to discuss cutting forces abroad.

Deputy Secretary of State Kenneth Rush, the No. 2 man behind Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, said in New York that "American forces are in Europe because of our national security needs. They constitute a vital element in the common defense of the West."

its caused by 300,000 GIs on the continent.

Hartman said there had been a dramatic reversal in balance of payments since last year, largely due to enormous increases in the costs of imported oil on which Western Europe depends.

Hartman said the next stage of economic and monetary union has been postponed, and the French have withdrawn the franc from a community monetary agreement. The market still has no common energy policy.

"THE situation has grown so strained that many Europeans are questioning whether the nine member countries possess the will to move ahead to further unity or will allow the community to stagnate or fall apart," Hartman said.

He said withdrawing U.S. troops "would have an adverse psychological impact out of all proportion to the actual military effect of such reductions."

Both Hartman and Rush said forces should not be reduced without similar commitments from the Warsaw Pact nations.

GI claims 80% in unit drug users

TEMPE, ARIZ. (AP)—A young soldier who said his enlisted companions in Germany had enough drugs to "kill 40 people," told his parents by letter that "someone tried to stick a knife in me."

Pfc. Michael Rehbein last month charged that more than 80 per cent of the men in his armored infantry company in Baumholder, Germany, were narcotics users or pushers.

He was returned to Frankfurt, Germany, by the Army on Jan. 19, placed in protective custody and then transferred to another unit stationed in Frankfurt.

A Pentagon spokesman said that young Rehbein brought the charges to the attention of the battalion commander, "but his information was so sketchy that they were unable to substantiate the knifing allegations."

'THE SAN PEDRO OF 1830 AS RICHARD HENRY DANA SAW IT'
Murals at Dana Junior High School Face an Uncertain Future

Walls may come tumblin' down

Dana fans rally to save San Pedro school murals

By DICK EMERY

News Item: Dana Junior High, San Pedro's oldest junior high school, facing demolition as quake hazard, gets a one-semester reprieve to next January 30.

Well, now. There are more ways to tell a story than ways to skin a cat.

To skin a cat means to swing a cat-o-nine-tails, to lash with a nine-thonged whip. The expression came from the sea and sailing ships.

And in the years of sail, a Harvard law student quit school in 1833 and went sailing to California on the ship Pilgrim. Many a time he saw the cat swung in punishment on a sailor's bare back.

Two years of that brought Richard Henry Dana back home, and back into Harvard, with his blood seething from brutalities he'd seen and felt. He wrote a book about the cruise and published it in 1840.

"Two Years Before the Mast" swept not only the literary world; the book angered every seafaring country and started a cleanup of shipboard miseries, a cleanup centuries overdue, which has continued to this day. But in a chapter or two, Dana told of the Pilgrim's visit to San Pedro to load hides.

Nearly a century later, in 1928, San Pedro dwellers were choosing a name for their first junior high. The townspeople were removed from seafaring by only a generation or two, if at all; they named the school in honor of the author. A few years later, in the Great Depression of the 1930s, when the WPA was hiring starving artists in the Federal Art Project, Dana Junior High spoke up for a gift of art work, offered by the federal government.

Dana showed a federal art committee two splendid bare walls, the north and south walls in the school's spacious cafeteria, part of the main building which now stands condemned as a quake hazard.

"Beautiful," said the committee spokesman. "Space for two murals, each eight feet high and 50 feet wide! In oil! You'll suggest a theme?"

Top port job hopeful quits

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

The top scorer in a recent examination for the $57,712-a-year job as general manager of the Los Angeles Harbor Department has withdrawn his application.

A spokesman for the city's Personnel Department said Friday the department received a telegram from Edward S. Reed, executive port director and general manager of the Port of New Orleans, that he was no longer a candidate. He scored 98 points in the examination.

That left Fred B. Crawford, a former second deputy general manager of the Los Angeles Harbor Department, as the top man on the outsider's list. Crawford, who served as the third ranked official on the Harbor Department staff for 4½ years before resigning about six months ago, scored a half point below Reed.

Added to the eligibility list of three top scorers was Walter A. Abernathy, deputy executive director of the Port of Oakland. His score was 85.75 points.

Six candidates are eligible—three on the outsiders' list and three on the list of present department employees. Under the City Charter the Board of Harbor Commissioners can request the Civil Service Commission to certify one list or the other as being the list of eligible candidates. The commission then has the choice of selecting any one of the top three on the eligibility list.

TOP SCORERS among department employees were Lawrence L. Whiteneck, chief harbor engineer, 84.1; Donald A. Walsh, the director of planning and research and currently serving as emergency general manager, 83.83; and Ed Hill, chief wharfinger, 80.37.

The five-man Harbor Commission has not publicly indicated which list it will ask to be certified. If the commission does not specifically ask that Civil Service Commission certify the "open" list then the Personnel Department will automatically certify the "promotional" list. Should one of the three candidates, Whiteneck, Walsh, or Hill, withdraw then the top man on the open list, Crawford, would be added to the promotional list and thus become the top scorer on that list.

The Harbor Commission has until March 1 to request certification of the open list, otherwise it must then select a new general manager from the promotional list.

The Federal Art Project was loaded with artists, good ones. They read "Two Years Before the Mast." They re-read Dana's descriptions of a waterfront where ships lay to offshore while sailors and Indians carried cattle hides to shoreboats. It must have been an artist named Adrien Machefer — his name appears in small printed letters in a lower corner of one of the big panels — whose sketches were drawn on the cafeteria walls.

Crews of artists worked; there was no hurry, not in the Depression. In that lost decade there was no hurry and little hope.

Month after month, the artists painted. The idea of the Federal Art Project, after all, was to provide grocery money to talented artists. In later decades many of those hungry project daubers gained fame and fortune beyond Depression dreams. When the two panels finally were done, the artists admired the finished murals — and left for other labors.

So all these years since that day in 1938, Dana's students have studied the two big murals, murals rich in colors and action and expression. The students' parents — some of them — have looked wonderingly at the murals, at Parents Nights at the school. The world has NOT beaten a path to the Dana cafeteria despite the mousetrapp story, although the murals are better than most; but sailors and seamen and longshoremen and fishermen, and the readers of Dana and the Hornblower books and of "Mutiny on the Bounty," and the builders of boats and ships, aren't the only viewers who admire the murals in Dana's cafeteria.

There are even some artists, here and there, begrudging as are artists everywhere, who admit, "yes, those Dana murals DO have spirit! They DO have life!"

There are even a few Dana fans who hope the two superb murals won't fall with the cafeteria walls when the wreckers' "headache ball" comes smashing, next February if all goes well.

After all, the murals are legal property of the federal government, a fact that surprises many disbelievers in Art for Art's Sake. The murals may not be destroyed, or moved, or even monkeyed with, without official sanction by federal authorities.

Dean cited for guiding students

Dr. Kenneth C. Weisbrod, associate dean for counseling at Long Beach State University, received the annual award of the California College Personnel Assn. Friday for innovative work in student counseling.

He was given the Richard Dodge Memorial Award at a meeting of the association in San Francisco.

The Dodge award is presented annually to outstanding educators in guidance and personnel.

Cynthia Johnson, president of the personnel association, said Weisbrod is noted for his work with both gifted and emotionally disturbed students in the U.S. and foreign countries.

CHP urges drivers to check car speedometers

If the new 55-mile-per-hour speed limit has you worried about the accuracy of your speedometer, Capt. Bill Berry, commander of the Westminster office of the highway patrol, has a suggestion for you.

"By driving through a measured mile," he says, "and calculating the elapsed time, your actual speed can be determined."

The key figure is 65 seconds because that's how long it takes to drive a mile at 55 miles an hour.

Berry reminds motorists that there are approximately 40 locations in the Westminster CHP area where there are signposts indicating a measured mile. He adds that a motorist who drives a particular route to work can always clock a mile between two landmarks — for example, houses, bridges or telephone poles.

Then the next time he can time himself.

If it takes less than 65 seconds to go a mile, your speedometer is wrong and so are you because you are exceeding the speed limit. If it takes longer than that you're all right, but your speedometer is still wrong.

Better child-abuse diagnosis urged

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Physicians and nurses should sharpen their diagnostic acumen to detect child abuse (the battered child syndrome), a specialist in emergency care urged Friday.

It could mean the difference between life and death for a child, explained Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald, assistant director of emergency services at St. Mary Medical Center, Long Beach.

MacDONALD reported on new findings dealing with the child abuse problem at an emergency health seminar sponsored by California Nurses' Association, District 18, Long Beach. The daylong meeting was held in Edgewater Hyatt House.

The doctor said if a battered child goes undiagnosed the first time, there is a 25 to 50 per cent risk of death from battering at some subsequent time.

The problem is much bigger than hitherto suspected, MacDonald said. Health authorities estimate there are 65,000 child batterings in the United States annually, and 700 deaths. That makes child abuse a health problem more significant in number than tetanus (lockjaw) or snakebite, he said.

In Long Beach alone, he said, there have been three child-abuse deaths within the past several months.

MacDONALD, who said new statistics were reported recently at a meeting of the American Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, disclosed that a single hospital will see 10 to 50 cases of child battering a year, depending on the size of the hospital.

AND OF all children seen in a hospital emergency department, 10 per cent will be battering victims, he added.

Citing more statistics, MacDonald said there is a five to 10 per cent death rate from the first battering. Another five per cent of victims will suffer permanent damage. Thirty-seven per cent will be seriously injured.

MacDONALD said there are a number of clues that doctors and nurses should watch for.

The nature of the injury is often inconsistent with the medical history, he said. One good approach is for both the emergency room nurse and the physician to take a medical history from the parent, and then check notes with one another. Frequently there will be discrepancies in what the parents tell the nurse and what they tell the doctor.

Sometimes there are characteristic injuries — cigarette burns, a typical bruising pattern (on the back of the head and down the spine, from slamming against a wall), and "wringer" injury.

WRINGER injury, MacDonald explained, is not that type caused by a washing machine. Instead, it refers to a twisting of a child's arm or leg by a parent.

Doctors should look for repeated fractures. These also are typical of the syndrome.

Age of the victim may also be a tipoff. Eighty per cent are under three years old, and 40 to 50 per cent of victims are under six months of age.

Health professionals should also try to elicit information about the emotional state of the parents, MacDonald continued. Reason: Battering customarily occurs during a time of family stress and when a parent is disciplining a child or when the parent is undergoing a fit of rage.

The type of parent who batters a child has been found to be immature, one who wants instant gratification, and often a person who has a history of isolation and loneliness. In addition, the parent who batters may have been battered himself when a child.

The doctor must learn to control his own rage when he sees a battered child. If a parent senses rage, it will increase his hostility toward the child, MacDonald explained.

THE DOCTOR'S role, in addition to treating the patient, admitting the patient to the hospital and reporting the incident to legal authorities, is to educate the parent in an effort to prevent a recurrence of battering.

These parents have trouble administering discipline, and battering results when the disciplining procedure gets out of hand, MacDonald said. So parents must be taught

Schools, offices to shut Monday

Government offices, banks, libraries and schools, including Long Beach City College and Long Beach State University, will be closed Monday in observance of George Washington's birthday, but many stores and some businesses will remain open.

There will be no regular mail delivery, but the Postal Service will make holiday collections from boxes and building chutes. In addition, special delivery parcels and letters will be delivered.

City officials said trash collections will be made on their regular schedule, and emergency services will be provided as usual.

The regular meeting of the Long Beach Unified School District Board of Education, which normally meets on Monday, will be conducted at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the student center at the LBCC Liberal Arts Campus, 4901 E. Carson St., a spokesman said.

Black films by whites insulting, says author

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

The current rash of black violence films such as Superfly are made by whites and are an insult to blacks, a black filmmaker told about 200 students at Long Beach State University Friday.

Sam Greenlee, who made a film of his best-selling novel "The Spook Who Sat By The Door," said black film-goers are becoming more selective and beginning to stay away from such "jive rip-off films."

"Those films are the kind of films that white boys make for one another," Greenlee said. "They don't know how to do anything else."

"THEY'RE EXCITED about drugs and prostitutes and that kind of thing, so that's what they project up there for black people."

Greenlee said he decided to make a movie of his novel only because he was able to finance it with money from the black community.

The book is a study of "revolutionary character in general and the farcical nature of racial integration in the U.S. in particular," Greenlee said.

It's about a CIA agent who learns guerrilla warfare and later uses it as a tactic for revolution in American cities.

Greenlee spent eight years working for the U.S. Information Agency in four different countries and was given the agency's meritorious service award for his activities during the 1958 Iraqi revolution.

He resigned from the USIA in 1965 to devote full time to writing.

Greenlee said that some commentators had seen similarities between "Spook" and the Hearsi kidnapping by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

"I don't see any parallels between the activities of a bunch of white, middle-class, acid-head how to maintain their composure.

When stress occurs, these parents should be encouraged to go away from home for the weekend, leaving the child with a grandparent or a babysitter.

"It is not the time to discipline a child when the parent is under stress," MacDonald emphasized.

FINALLY, he said, doctors and nurses should be alert when a parent brings in a child with a "nonsensical complaint."

It may be a battered child situation, he said, adding: "The parent may be asking for help with a child-abuse problem."

Because many doctors have failed to identify this pattern, the battered child syndrome is being underdiagnosed, the doctor said.

Backpack class set at L.B. Park

Registration opens today for a new backpacking class at El Dorado Nature Center, 7550 E. Spring St., and will be limited to Long Beach residents for the first week.

Out-of-town residents may register next Saturday, if openings remain. The class will be limited to 40 students.

The class, sponsored by the Long Beach Recreation Department, will be held on Wednesdays at 7 p.m., starting March 6. It will be taught by Frank Ashley, veteran backpacking instructor for the department.

The four-session course will cover selection and care of equipment, safety measures, trail-blazing, chart reading, cooking and wilderness survival.

Registration will take place at the Nature Center from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday, and from 2 to 5 p.m. on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. Fee for the class is $6.

Claims for new carburetor said to be unfounded

By STAN LEPPARD
Staff Writer

The California Air Resources Board told a special legislative hearing Friday that new tests made on the controversial Kendig carburetor have shown it to be no better in pollution emissions than a standard carburetor, and worse in fuel economy.

The hearing convened by the Assembly Committee on Transportation at the ARB emissions control laboratory in El Monte followed three days of testing the Kendig Variable Venturi device against a standard carburetor in the same 1973 Pinto.

Gerhardt Hass, chief of the El Monte facility, revealed the results in charts on a series of three baseline (standard equipment) tests and three comparative tests of the Kendig carburetor.

TEST averages for the Kendig on emissions were 1.39 grams per mile (gpm) of hydrocarbons, 21.66 gpm of carbon monoxide, and 1.63 gpm of nitrogen oxides.

Emission test averages for the standard Pinto carburetor were 1.63 gpm of hydrocarbons, 15.02 gpm of carbon monoxide, and 3.24 gpm of nitrogen oxides.

In fuel economy, the standard carburetor delivered 19.95 miles per gallon and the Kendig carburetor delivered 16.21 miles per gallon — a loss in fuel economy by the Kendig of approximately 18 per cent.

Hass noted that in two of the three tests the Kendig device showed an improvement over the standard carburetor in carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxide emissions, but he attributed this to an extra-lean fuel mixture during these tests that would not be commercially acceptable in starting characteristics or drivability of the Pinto.

HASS told the committee that public confusion about the Kendig carburetor was caused by an erroneous news story released by a Sacramento news service, claiming outstanding advances in emissions control and fuel economy for the Kendig device. These claims, Hass pointed out, have since been publicly disavowed by Haig Marshall, president of Pollution Controls Industries, Inc., of Torrance, promoters of the Kendig Variable Venturi carburetor. Marshall was first to testify before the committee, and complained that he felt he was there "under duress" because he had been threatened with a subpoena if he did not appear. He said he didn't want to have the hearing and the tests at this time, because the Kendig carburetor needed more work before it was ready to be officially tested.

AT THIS point, Assemblyman Robert H. Burke, acting chairman of the committee, interrupted. "You have complained that the Air Resources Board has consistently ignored demands to check into your carburetor, and now when they do so you say you aren't ready," Burke said dryly. "That sounds like a contradiction to me."

Marshall, like Hass, blamed the erroneous story by the Sacramento news service for excessive public optimism about the Kendig carburetor. He said he was not responsible for claims made in the story — such as the one that an old Mercury equipped with a Kendig carburetor delivered 30 miles per gallon (instead of the 12.35 actually delivered) during an emissions control road rally sponsored by University of California, Davis, engineering students last year.

"But anyway, the car with the Kendig carburetor took first place in its division for emissions control, everybody seems to be forgetting that," Marshall added.

Committee member Frank Lanterman asked Marshall how many cars were entered in that particular division, and Marshall said he didn't know.

A staff member of the ARB, which was the official emissions and mileage testing agency for the rally, spoke up with the answer. "One," he said laconically.

Hayes assails state on carburetor tests

Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisor James Hayes Friday criticized state officials for using the threat of subpoena to "force premature tests" on the air pollution control capabilities of the Kendig carburetor.

Hayes claimed the forced tests were used "to provide a showcase" for the Assembly Transportation subcommittee hearing held in El Monte Friday.

Noting that the subcommittee hearing room was "packed," Hayes said, "The stunt apparently worked."

He said it was "a misuse of power" for the committee to threaten the developers of the Kendig with a subpoena. "I agree with Haig Marshall, president of Pollution Control Industries, that such premature testing could do immense harm to his firm's development and engineering program for the Kendig carburetor," Hayes said.

Hayes said he considered the Kendig "a very promising invention," adding that Pollution Control Industries he hoped would succeed in overcoming some engineering problems so it could meet state and federal emissions requirements. The supervisor said he was told that engineers had to rush to attach a makeshift part to the carburetor so it could undergo the forced state test. He said, "That is grossly unfair and can be only be interpreted as a grandstand play on the part of the subcommittee."

"I've been told by Mr. Marshall that he needs just a few more weeks to complete the engineering and I hope that state officials now will act in a responsible fashion and give him the time without waving any more subpoenas in his face," Hayes added.

Briefly ... 'Evangelical' definition; more on you-know-what

An interesting contribution to the ever-raging discussion about the relative places of personal salvation and worldly concerns in the Christian life comes from the president of San Francisco Theological Seminary (United Presbyterian), Dr. Arnold B. Come.

Posing the question: "What is an evangelical seminary?" he answers this way:

"First, the basic New Testament meaning of evangelical is the good news that God has come as a savior in Jesus Christ to set men free to become the children of God. And that church or seminary is evangelical that believes, teaches and lives that good news."

"The second point is just as important. The whole gospel has two sides to it: love of God, and love of neighbor. One without the other is only half a gospel, indeed, no gospel. To reduce evangelism to EITHER personal experience or to social concern for poor and oppressed people is a false dichotomy. To really know God's love in your heart compels you to express love to your neighbor in need. To be concerned about society is to be concerned about persons, the whole person, body and soul.

"We (the seminary) are dedicated to bringing together these two loves, of God and neighbor, into a dynamic, powerful, whole reality. Therefore we are consciously and aggressively an evangelical seminary."

SPEAKING OF seminaries, a minor irony in the tragedy of the Missouri Synod's division over Concordia Seminary is the fact that the word Concordia in Latin means "harmony."

RISKING THE possibility that you have had enough about exorcism for a while, here are a few more gleanings on the fascinating topic.

The Catholic Encyclopedia, among other things, says: "What often appeared to be possession in earlier days is now recognized as a pathological state attributable to one or more nervous disorders."

It is clear that the New Testament often attributed to diabolical possession some purely natural affliction, such as epilepsy.

This is carried a step further by Rev. Juan Cortes, a Catholic psychologist at Georgetown University in Washington, setting of the book and movie "The Exorcist."

Father Cortes states: "Possession itself has never taken place, and exorcism should be abolished. Besides being useless, it's harmful and dangerous."

He believes that ancient writers spoke of people being possessed of "demons" when they suffered from an affliction that could not be explained.

"There's not a single case in which the New Testament speaks of possession by the devil or devils," Cortes says.

However, he notes that some Bible translations render the Greek word "daimonion" as "devil" instead of its literal meaning, "demon." For modern clarity, he contends, the word should be translated as "mysterious harmful powers" since that is what "demon" meant in its ancient context, although now "devil" and "demon" often have the same connotation.

In big weekend here

The New Kingsmen, who have traveled through this country, Canada and Europe, performing in churches, schools, public halls, prisons, armed services bases, shopping centers, parks on radio and TV, will make a whirlwind, triple appearance in Long Beach this weekend. Tonight at 7 they'll be at Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity, 1900 E. Carson St. Sunday at 8:30 and 11 a.m. at Our Saviour's Lutheran, 370 Junipero Ave., and Sunday, 7:30 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran, Eighth and Linden. They sing spirituals, gospel, light rock, folk, traditional and some original music, with a variety of instrumental accompaniment.

Bellflower to host Baptist Bible meeting

Delegates, pastors and missionaries from some of the nation's largest churches will attend the annual Midwinter Meeting of the Baptist Bible Fellowship International Monday through Thursday at Calvary Baptist Church of Bellflower, 14722 Clark Ave.

It will be the third time that the local church has hosted the meeting for the 23-year-old fellowship. Rev. Dr. H. Frank Collins, pastor, says all sessions are open and the public is invited. Nightly meetings are at 7:30. Music will be supplied by the local choir and guest artists.

Of the 10 largest churches in America, the pastor notes, six are members of the conservative, fundamental fellowship, composed of more than 2200 churches with a membership approaching two million. The Bellflower church, averaging 1,400 in Sunday School, was listed among the nation's top 100 Sunday Schools. The church sponsors the television program "Meeting Time at Calvary" heard over Channel 9 and Channel 30.

The opening night's featured speaker is Dr. John Rawlings, pastor of the giant Landmark Baptist Church of Cincinnati, averaging over 5,000 in Sunday School. Rawlings is originator of "Landmark Baptist Hour" heard over foreign radio as well as nationwide here, and is president of Artist's Recording Co.

Tuesday night's speaker will be Dr. G. B. Vick, pastor of Temple Baptist of Detroit, and the founding force behind the formation of the fellowship. He is also president of Baptist Bible College in Springfield, Mo., the fellowship's base.

Speaking Wednesday will be Dr. Harold Heninger, pastor of what is termed the world's fifth largest church, Canton Baptist of Ohio. The church is also the home of the Jolly 60s Club, a non-denominational group of senior citizens.

Closing address Thursday night will be by the president of Baptist Bible Fellowship International, Dr. A. V. Henderson of First Baptist of New Castle, Del., reputed to be one of the generation's top preachers.

Morning sessions from 9 to noon will hear Dr. Art Wilson, Dr. S. M. Lockridge, evangelist Clyde Kendall, Rev. Don Young, originator of the "Young at Heart" television program, Dr. Wendell Zimmerman and Dr. Parker Dailey.

With strong emphasis on missionary work, the fellowship maintains more than 300 workers in 30 mission fields.

GOINGS ON

Basketball will bring the message Sunday, 6:30 p.m. in LOS ALTOS BRETHREN, 6585 Stearns St. Howard Lyon, former Millikan High coach, now at Biola, will bring the Biola team. Also speaking will be Billy Ingram, who played varsity ball at Oregon University.

Long Beach Judge Martin DeVries, retired, still active in the cause of Christian missions, recently visited Ethiopia with Mrs. DeVries and will report on some unusual experiences Sunday, 10 a.m. in COMMUNITY PRESBYTERIAN of North Long Beach, 6380 Orange Ave.

"The Return," a color film adapted from the Hal Lindsey best seller "The Late Great Planet Earth," and filmed in the Holy Land, will be shown Sunday, 6:30 p.m. in EVANGELICAL UNITED METHODIST, 1700 Temple Ave. Stan Ross, a "completed" Jew and missionary, will speak at the church at 10:45 a.m. and will participate in questions and answers after the evening film.

"A Thief in the Night," the movie about the impact of the Second Coming and the rapture on an ordinary family, will be shown Sunday 6 p.m. in FIRST NAZARENE, 2280 Clark Ave., and Sunday 7 p.m. in MOUNT OLIVET LUTHERAN, 4405 South St., Lakewood.

Dr. Stephan A. Hoeller, of the Philosophic Research Society of Los Angeles, and former research assistant for author Irving Stone, will speak on "The Exorcist—Fact or Fancy" Sunday 3 p.m. at THE OSOPHICAL SOCIETY, at the YWCA, Sixth and Pacific.

Betty Wylder, authority on herbs, will speak and demonstrate on "herbs and witchcraft" at the Outrigger, singles group meeting Sunday, 7 p.m. in COVENANT PRESBYTERIAN, 607 E. Third St., with all singles over 35 invited.

Silver Lute Singers of Lakewood High will perform at the Wednesday 6:30 p.m. dinner of Methodist Men of BELMONT HEIGHTS church, 317 Termino Ave., with all men invited to make reservations.

Gospel Concerts returns next Saturday night, 7:30, to MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM, that's Feb. 23, with the Imperials, Downings and others.

Homosexuality article stirs Presbyterian fuss

By LES RODNEY

It's not nearly as big as the uproar over a grant to the Angela Davis defense, but there is a new fuss in the ranks of United Presbyterians.

This one has to do with an article in the denominational magazine "Trends" on homosexuality, which referred to it as "neither sin nor sickness."

The publication "Presbyterian Layman," voice of the conservative Lay Committee within the United Presbyterian Church, in October urged churches to publicly repudiate the article as unbiblical, and to send copies of the letters and resolutions to the Layman.

THE JANUARY issue of the Layman reported that "nearly 50" sessions (ruling bodies) of churches have registered formal protest. It adds that some 100 United Presbyterians have individually written letters of protest to church officials, and have sent copies to the Layman. Eight letters approving the Trends article were also received.

Among sessions listed as having protested was one from this area, Emmanuel Church of Long Beach. A phone call to the pastor, Rev. Richard Morton, elicited the information that the content of the church's protest was that the Trends position was unbiblical and must be opposed. Cited was the first chapter of Romans, which is specific in saying that homosexuality is sinful.

Typical expressions from the page full of letters published by the Layman: "If these people wish to challenge the orthodox Biblical viewpoint of our church on this matter, let them do so in their own name and not in the name of the United Presbyterian Church." This from a Pennsylvania church.

Another, from the session of a Santa Barbara church: "We express our love and sympathy for all who have erred and gone astray, and our desire to serve them honestly and lovingly through the ministry of our church. In this instance we call for a new statement on homosexuality which will place it in a Biblical framework."

Other letters were sharper, some calling for the removal from Trends of those responsible for the article. (Whether comically or not, a new editor for the magazine was named last month.)

THE PRESBYTERIAN Layman, which refers to itself as a loyal opposition, does publish on page one the statement on the Trends article by the denomination's Program Agency Board, which says:

"Trends is a publication to present issues to the church for study, not to express policy or denominational stance. The approach which was taken in the issue dealing with homosexuality was to hear from homosexuals to present a point of view not often heard by the church. Readers were not called upon to condone or condemn but simply to listen. The perspective explores briefly the Biblical injunctions against homosexuality and raises the question of accepting the homosexual as a person."

Asked about this statement, Rev. Morton of the Long Beach church replied that the major fact was still the lengthy presentation of an unbiblical view by an official publication of the church, and that this was wrong and harmful.

THE SUBJECT of the Trends article may or may not have come up in a significant meeting in December of representatives of the Lay Committee with top officers in the denomination. The meeting was at the invitation of Moderator Clinton Marsh for "a discussion of common concerns for the life of the church."

The Lay Committee, which has leveled its strongest criticism at the denominational leadership, at the meeting urged greater representation in the policy making bodies for "evangelical conservatives."

After the meeting, Marsh, who was elected last year at General Assembly (incidentally the first black moderator), said:

"I think we have discovered as we came together to talk to each other rather than about each other, that we have gained a greater respect for each other and the other person's point of view and how he sees the mission of the church, even if we do not agree. We have had some serious disagreements and misunderstandings. We have taken note of the points raised and they will be helpful to all of us as we deal with the issues in a constructive way. It has been a good beginning."

The Layman also gave prominent space to the remarks by Rev. R. Byron Crozier of Indiana, Pa. in the closing worship service at the meeting.

"We Presbyterians have a penchant for division. So Jesus is saying to us at this conference 'Blessed are the peacemakers'..."

'Briefly' on exorcism

"That is where the confusion comes,"

ON THE other hand, right on the same Georgetown campus, Rev. Edmund Ryan, also a theologian and the college vice president, says there is "the possibility of possession of a human being by the devil" with ample foundations in both scripture and church traditions. He adds that cases are very rare. Nonetheless, he opposes the view that exorcism should be junked by the church. Where it is carried out under conditions specified by the church, he says, there is "a strong possibility of the person being helped."

The central question of free will is brought in by yet another Catholic theologian, Rev. William O'Malley of Rochester, N.Y., who observes: "People can use the devil for a scapegoat, and shirk their moral responsibilities. Like Flip Wilson says, 'The devil made me do it.'"

This theme is stressed by a Lutheran leader, Rev. Dr. Robert P. Roth, dean of Northwestern Lutheran Theological Seminary of St. Paul, Minn., who feels the current revival of interest in exorcism is a kind of throwback to "medieval concepts of the devil." He states: "The devil can't cause people to do anything, but he can tempt them to do it freely insofar as they believe his lies. They can come under his sway, but this is not causally determined by him because they're free to disbelieve his frauds."

WE NOTE in The Tidings, Catholic Archdiocese publication, that Cardinal

Timothy Manning spoke about the reality of the devil in a talk to the Holy Name Society. "One of the sources of pornography," he said, "is his satanic majesty, the devil."

The activity of the devil, the cardinal continued, is expressed in three ways. First, by possession, in which he might enter into a person in hope of controlling him. Another is obsession, in which he persecutes the individual without controlling the body. The third is by temptation.

The fact of obsession, Manning said, is verified through history, and he added that all are subject to temptation. He referred to the devil's three titles, the father of lies, murderer and prince of this world. There is ample evidence, he said, of the devil's activity in our culture.

MARTIN LUTHER, father of the Reformation, warned that "A Christian should know that he is sitting among devils and that the devil is closer to him than his coat or shirt." But, he added, the devil can't win, has no power to hold the faithful Christian.

In a humorous reference, Luther describes one of his own encounters with Satan this way: "When I go to bed, the devil is always waiting for me. When he begins to plague me, I give him this answer: 'Devil, I must sleep. That's God's command — work by day, sleep by night. So go away.' If that doesn't work and he brings out a catalog of sins, I say 'Yes, old fellow, I know all about it. And I know some more you have overlooked. Here are a few extra. Put them down.'"

Says Luther: "So I fell asleep and let him be angry, for I well knew that he could do nothing to me."

Luther's emphasis was that the devil's mission is to separate man from God, and that's where the devil exerts his powers (rather, he might add if he were alive today, than in capriciously terrorizing a young girl in what seems to be purposeless horror.)

But, of course, Martin Luther's best known comment on the devil occurs in his most famous hymn, "A Mighty Fortress is Our God."

One verse of that Lutheran theme song goes: "And though this world, with devils filled, Should threaten to undo us, We will not fear, for God has will, His truth to triumph through us. The prince of darkness grim, We tremble not for him. His rage we can endure. For lo! his doom is sure. One little word shall fell him..." By LES RODNEY

WITH THIS ring Donald Cady weds Kathy Rinehart in the Queen Mary Wedding Chapel as resident minister Rev. Robert Pomeroy officiates. Couple is from Buena Park.

And get me to the Queen on time

"These people touring the promenade deck saw a bride and groom come out of the chapel and one of the tourists said in surprise, 'You mean people really get married here?' They couldn't believe a real life situation was going on aboard the Queen."

So relates Rev. Robert F. Pomeroy, resident minister for the Queen Mary Wedding Chapel, where real live people have been really getting married since November, 1972. Pomeroy is the former pastor of Los Alamitos Congregational Church, and a state licensed marriage and family counselor.

What kind of people get hitched on the Queen? The minister had some shipboard nuptial statistics. "Sixty six per cent are under the age of 30, with 49 per cent between 21 and 30. But we get them all. The youngest I've married here was 17, the oldest 63."

How do they dress? Mostly formal, replied Pomeroy. With occasional exceptions. One flustered young bridegroom brought everything except shoes, and was stuck with his white tennies — until a photographer with a lucky close foot size loaned him a pair of blacks.

Half of the marriages in the pleasant chapel, which seats about 250, are first marriages, the minister added.

"The percentage of first marriages is higher in churches," he commented. "We get some second marriages, I suppose, because for some reason the church won't do them, or perhaps the people felt uncomfortable about asking."

Ceremonies on the Queen are basically religious.

"I meet with the couples and ask them what they want," the minister said. "They may tell me to leave out the word 'obey.' I never put that in anyhow."

Beyond the wedding format, Pomeroy insists on counseling each couple before the ceremony, as ministers generally do before church weddings.

The concept of the Queen Mary Wedding Chapel is non denominational. It is made available to weddings of all faiths. "We've had Buddhist ceremonies, where the priest brings the traditional pots, Jewish ceremonies with the chupah, and also followers of Islam." Pomeroy has officiated at several mixed marriages involving a Christian.

Most of the couples are local, he informs, "but we've had some from San Francisco and San Diego and points in between."

"Their occupations run the gamut. Let's see, machinist, pipefitter, truck driver, nurse, college professor, stewardess, engineer, salesman and servicemen. For the latter, I may put on my Navy Reserve uniform."

He would never turn away a couple because the bride-to-be was pregnant, he said.

"My concept of God is an all-loving God."

The novelty aspect of being married on the Queen brings in some happily married oldsters to renew their vows, and Rev. Pomeroy finds this perfectly delightful.

He has also officiated at ceremonies where both partners bring children from a previous marriage.

"And I like the children

SEMINARY IN EXILE?

ST. LOUIS — The majority of the Concordia Seminary faculty, replying to a plea by Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod leader Preus to return to classes, said they would return Tuesday if previous conditions are restored, including reinstatement of seminary president Tietjen. Otherwise they said they would begin a "seminary in exile" in another location.

Council names leaders, adds 4 churches

The Long Beach Area Council of Churches has installed the following officers for 1974:

President — Aaron Herrington, a lay leader at First Congregational.
Vice Presidents — Rev.
Roger Lautzenhiser, Mrs.
John Conrad, Dr. Robert
Andrews. Secretary —
Mrs. Jesse Benavidez.
Treasurer — Mrs. Perle
Mason.

Other responsibilities:
Community Action, Rev.
Dale Whitney; Witness,
Rev. E. Joseph Read;
Communications, Rev.
James Tomlin; Finance,
Rev. Stanley Hunt; Membership, Rev. James Flora.

Four new churches were accepted into membership of the cooperative agency, bringing the total to 66. New members are

Evangelical Lutheran, St. Michael's American Orthodox and Revelation Holy Baptist.

to participate," said
Pomeroy with a twinkle.
"I may ask 'Do you take this man as your new daddy?'"

One of the more unusual marriages in the brief history of the Queen Mary Wedding Chapel was one involving a couple in their early forties.

"They gave me the same last names. It turned out to be a remarriage.
They had been married to each other and divorced, then each married another
mate and were divorced, and they decided to come back together."

THE DAILY INVESTOR

Don't doubt mutuals

By DON CAMPBELL

I have this pet rabbit and I keep him locked in a cage on a motor-driven treadmill. The faster the rabbit goes, the faster the treadmill goes. Or is it the other way around?

At any rate, somebody is going nowhere at a very great rate of speed.

Q: I READ an article of yours recently about the poor performance of the mutual funds. I have that problem and would like some information on the two funds I hold.

I have held these over the years and find that, after 10 years, they are worth less than what I paid for them. What should be done with them now?

A: No, look, I don't want to seem rude, but you're looking at these two funds of yours through a very cockeyed pair of glasses.

Okay, neither of them has set the world on fire in the past 10 years, but the truth of the matter is that — both collectively and individually — they have nothing to be ashamed of in the performance department in the light of the kind of market we've had.

Over the past 10 years, that is, the two funds have averaged an annual appreciation of a little over 7 per cent. Sure, it's not a world-shaker and at the moment you would do as well with a bank's certificate of deposit.

But 10 years ago you couldn't have got this kind of return from a bank, and you certainly couldn't have averaged such a return over the past decade.

Now, what do you mean when you say that "after 10 years they are worthless than what I paid for them?" That's ridiculous!

What you are doing is looking at the net asset value (per share) of both funds today — the price at which you could redeem them — and you're finding that this NAV is less than it was when you bought them.

This, by itself, is neither unusual nor indicative of bad performance on the part of either fund. Remember that both of them are "open-end" funds. — they create new shares as they are sold and redeem old ones as they are redeemed — and the end result is that even a fund with an excellent performance record will frequently tend to have a per-share net asset value that remains fairly flat.

But what you're completely ignoring is the fact that both of your funds have consistently been paying out both capital gains distributions and cash dividends — even in the bad years — and I don't know whether don't know whether you have been taking these in cash, or in new shares.

In either event, though, you have been ignoring this aspect of your investment and have been looking solely, and inaccurately, at the NAV of the two funds.

This is a little bit like buying a baby chick, raising her to maturity and then concluding that the fried chicken dinner you ultimately have at her expense just about pays the freight of raising her.

But, in the course of this, you're ignoring the dozens of dozens of eggs that she has laid for your benefit in the course of her short and unglamorous life.

Q: YOU had a column, some time ago, where a 61-year-old correspondent wanted to know what to do with an estate of $423,000 and you suggested an annuity that would return him $2,939 a month for life.

If he'd been led down the bond route he could live another 61 years drawing $3,000 a month and would still end up with $423,000. You get a wage for the information you give in that column? Ouch!

A: Yes, that -- and for taking a certain amount of lip from people who read with their right eyes crossed behind their spinnacles. Why don't you go back and read the gentleman's question again?

He had $423,000 in stocks and BONDS (see?). He was familiar with bonds and would have gone that route if he'd had any confidence in them, seemingly) and was nervous about this spread.

And well he might have been, for the market fell apart like a wet graham cracker (as he apparently suspected it might) a few weeks after I answered him.

Point two: he had no heirs; had no desire to leave an estate and wanted nothing in the world but to travel and be careless — that means NO coupons to clip. NO worries about fluctuating bond prices, and no worries about the quality of bonds that would yield him the 8.5 per cent a year that I recommended from the annuity, and that he quite possibly could

I'm afraid that you forget one vital factor: every case is different and there are no pat answers.

Each individual has his own wants, needs — and his own pit of snakes to be avoided. I wish that giving individualized financial advice were as pat as you make it sound.

(Campbell welcomes letters, but can answer only representative questions of general interest usable in this column.)

Gibraltar building readied

Construction is now under way on the permanent building for Gibraltar Savings' Lakewood office at 5252 Lakewood Blvd., it was announced by Herbert J. Young, president.

The new office will be located in Lakewood Center near the southeast corner of Lakewood Boulevard and Candlewood Street.

The structure represents an investment of approximately $225,000 and will be an impressive contemporary Early California building with a total of 4,500 square feet.

It will feature a Spanish tile roof with a peripheral parapet, heavy wood paneled entry doors and heavy lantern style exterior lighting. Exterior walls will be of Spanish texture stucco with wood structural accents and with all glass areas framed in wood members.

Gibraltar Savings presently occupies a temporary office just south of the new building site.

Redd Foxx suffering exhaustion

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

This, that and some other things on the television-radio scene: Redd Foxx missed the rehearsals and taping of "Sanford and Son" this week for the second week in a row. His attorney reported the comedy star was suffering from nervous exhaustion and had left the country for a complete rest.

Producer Aaron Ruben had the scripts of "Sanford" rewritten the last two weeks so the episodes could be taped without Foxx. However, unless Redd returns soon, complete new scripts reportedly will be necessary for the last five shows of the season. Fred Sanford is such an integral part of the prepared scripts that it would be impossible to rewrite them, Ruben said.

THE SO-CALLED "golden age of television" in the 1950s wasn't so golden and today's TV is better, according to Walter A. Schwartz, president of ABC Television.

Added Schwartz: "Television has become the showplace — for the vast majority of our people almost the only place — where they can witness the very finest in film and drama."

ABC cancels movie on Marilyn Monroe

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Broadcasting Co. announced Friday it has canceled the March 5 showing of the television movie "The Sex Symbol."

ABC gave no explanation for cancellation of the film, whose plot closely follows events in the life of Marilyn Monroe.

"The Sex Symbol" starred Connie Stevens in the role of Kelly Williams, a famous Hollywood actress

"We should remind ourselves that for all of the quality that there was on television in the '50s, the medium was almost overwhelmed by what was mediocre at best and scandalous at worst," he said in an address this week before the Hollywood Radio and Television Society. "In our romanticizing of the television of that time, we rarely read or talk about all that did not glitter and all that was not golden."

MORE THAN 80 radio stations across the country — including KFI, KGIL, KLAC, KGBS, KRLA, KFAC and KMET-FM in the Los Angeles area — will participate in the second annual National Leukemia Radiothon from 5 p.m. today to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Gov. Ronald Reagan and Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley will make opening addresses in the first hour of the benefit broadcast, which will originate at the Burbank Studios.

The radiothon will feature Shirley Jones as national chairwoman; Ted Knight as 24-hour anchorman; and hosts such as Monty Hall, Dick Clark, Robert Reed, Richard Dawson, Smokey Robinson, Robert Q. Lewis, on the brink of suicide. The fictional actress is married to a professional football player and has an affair with a prominent political figure, ABC said.

The network did not say if the program would be aired at a later date.

"The postponement is a mystery to us," a spokesman for Screen Gems, which coproduced the film, said. "We are completely baffled by it."

Shelly Manne and Leonard Feather, Les Tremayne and Marvin Miller, Jay Lawrence and Dale Robertson, Frank DeVol and Arlene Francis.

THE AMERICAN Civil Liberties Union protested ABC's canceling of the Dick Cavett show a week ago Thursday when the guests were political activists Tom Hayden, Abbie Hoffman, Jerry Rubin and Rennie Davis.

However, Jay Sharbutt, Associated Press television writer in New York, points out that Cavett himself approved the grounds for ABC's action. "According to Cavett's lawyer," Sharbutt reports, "his agreement with ABC gives the network the option of requiring him to 'present the contrasting viewpoints on particular issues within the same program.'"

ABC executives decided the taped show lacked "balance" in five areas discussed — the capitalist system, the administration, the American system of justice and the courts and U.S. foreign policy with regard to Vietnam and Cambodia.

THE NATIONAL Association of Television Program Executives holds its 11th-annual conference today through Wednesday at the Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles. Numerous seminars and screenings are scheduled.

Channel 4 will present a 90-minute variety special at midnight tonight called "Saturday Night in the City." It will feature singer O. C. Smith as host, with singer Al Wilson, author Peter Maas, comedian Jackie Vernon, the Pearl Sisters, singer-comedienne Liz Torres and the Umoja Dancers as guests.

Ray Briem, late-night talk show host on KABC radio, has added an extra hour to his show. He starts at 11 now, instead of midnight, and continues to 5 a.m. "Superfan's" sports talk show on the same station also has been expanded an hour; he's on from 3 to 7 p.m. On Monday through Saturday ... Elliot Mintz now is on KABC radio from 7 to 9 p.m. and Count John Monolesco from 9 to 11 p.m.

Stockton leads; Miller fires 66

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

On a day when golf's newest golden boy, Johnny Miller, charged into contention with a 66, veteran Dave Stockton scrambled into the lead of the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open and then apologized for upstaging "the young guys."

"I'm sorry I ruined your stories," the 32-year-old Stockton quipped after firing his second consecutive 3-under-par 68 at Riviera Country Club Friday to lead Miller and another Bay Area, Jim Weichers, by one stroke.

Weichers and Dave Hill, who is in undisputed fourth place, also shot 66s. Jack Nicklaus, a 68 shooter in the first round, slipped into fifth place with a 73. Arnold Palmer also carded a 73.

It appeared that Miller would tie the course record of 65, but he lost that opportunity and a share of first place when he bogeyed the final hole.

Miller's second shot on the 18th hit a spectator in the head and Miller couldn't save par from 10 feet. Miller was more concerned about the fan, who was bleeding but said he wasn't hurt badly. He asked Miller for the ball as a memento.

"Maybe he wants it to fill the hole in his head," said Johnny. "That ball really knocked him. It flew in the air 40 feet. I'm just happy he wasn't hurt."

Ironically, Stockton's playing partner, Larry Ziegler, also hit a fan in the head on the 18th hole. When it was learned the man was dazed and groggy, Ziegler was so upset he withdrew from the tournament.

Stockton appeared to be out of contention with a string of three bogies in four holes, but the former PGA champion bounced

Arnie tries excavation in sand trap

Arnold Palmer executes explosion shot from sand trap alongside 16th hole at Riviera CC Friday. Arnie suffered bogey when he needed two putts to get down from six feet enroute to second-round 73. He takes one-under-par 141 into today's play in L.A. Open.

In a game which had to be seen to be believed, Long Beach City College scrambled to an 85-70 win over Pierce Friday night to set the stage for Tuesday's clash with Bakersfield for the Metropolitan Conference crown.

The Renegades, who defeated El Camino, 75-55, have the same 7-1 Metro mark as Long Beach.

Whistle-blowing Hal Whitfield and Lynn Harman signaled 59 personal fouls, including 34 in the first half.

All five Pierce starters fouled out, and the first three substitutes finished with four each.

Long Beach actually won the game with 37 of 48 from the charity line.

With forward Dave Hillman missing because of illness, and center Steve Sincok ailing, coach Bill Fraser started a three-guard, two-forward lineup: Dan Frost, Bill Cantwell, Tom DeBerry, Cal Wulfsberg and Dan Marquez.

The combination didn't last long as Frost and Wulfsberg led the Vikings into early foul trouble.

DeBerry led the Vikes with 19 points.

Hot outside shooting by Paul Miller and four big free throws by freshman George Tucker carried Oregon State to a 61-57 basketball upset over top-ranked UCLA Friday night.

It was UCLA's first Pacific-8 defeat in four years, ending a 49-game conference winning streak. The loss left the Bruins with an over-all 18-2 mark this season.

Miller, a sophomore, hit five field goals in the second half and wound up with 16 points as Oregon State won its third conference game in eight starts.

Tucker, a Pasadena High product, sank four free throws in the last 25 seconds after UCLA had rallied from seven points behind to pull within 57-56 with 42 seconds to go.

Tucker, the Beavers' poorest shooter from the line at 35 per cent, hit a pair of free throws to put Oregon State in front, 59-58. Dave Meyers then hit one of two free throws to pull the Bruins within two points.

UCLA, 7-1 in Pac-8 play, committed another turnover moments later after OSU lost the ball. Tucker was fouled by Tommie Curtis with 11 seconds to go and, with a sellout Gill Conference Over-all

But the key to the contest was the play of Doug Oxxen, a 6-10 Junior from Walnut Creek, Calif., who held UCLA superstar Bill Walton to 15 points—only five of which were scored in the second half.

UCLA outrebounded the Beavers, 44-29, with Walton grabbing 14. The Bruins, whose last Pac-8 defeat was by Southern

"We just made too many mistakes tonight and our seniors made them," said the UCLA coach.

Oregon State coach Ralph Miller, whose team was mobbed on the floor by the partisan crowd, said UCLA "is still No. 1, but I think we made some progress in the poll out there. We had an awfully young bunch of people out there," he said, referring to freshman starters Lonnie Shelton, Smith and Tucker.

43 turnovers, 112-96 victory

When a professional basketball team commits 43 ball-control errors the players normally would hide their heads in shame.

But the Lakers were more proud than embarrassed Friday night despite establishing a negative NBA record, since they overcame their mistakes to whip the Seattle Sonics, 112-96, at the Forum.

"You have to put forth a great physical effort to offset 43 turnovers," said coach Bill Sharman. "We were motivated tonight and put out much more than in recent weeks."

Seattle coach Bill Russell, whose Sonics had won 18 of their last 31 games, saw the game a little differently.

"You have to play horrible defense to give up 112 points when the other team gives you the ball 43 times," he said. "If we do anything right fundamentally we win by a dozen."

THE LAKERS, who held the former record of 40 miscues, ended a four-game losing streak and moved to within one-half game of pace-setting Golden State. Seattle dropped 7½ behind.

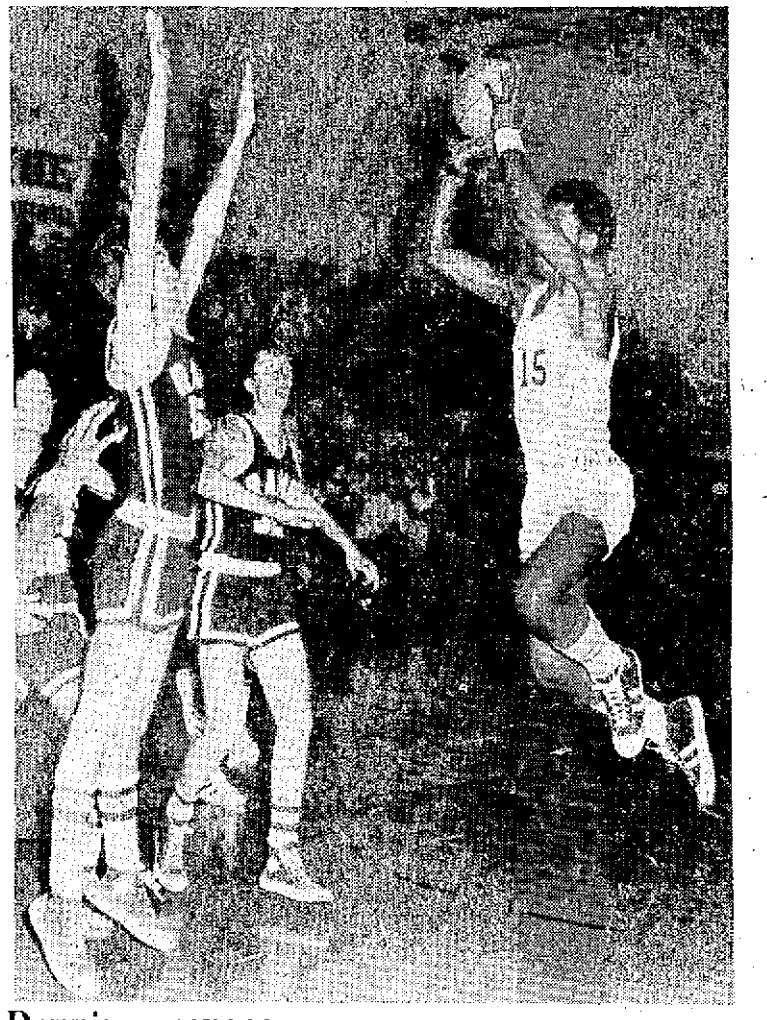

It was a unique game in that the Lakers appeared to have the victory in hand after one quarter, leading 31-13. They came out fired up and a top-sided win seemed almost certain.

But one mistake after another whittled down their margin, and four times in the fourth quarter the Sonics cut the deficit to one basket, the last at 85-83 with 8½ minutes remaining.

Forward Happy Hairston and reserve guard Pat Riley provided the spark and the points down the stretch which enabled the Lakers to win for the 20th time in 28 games at home.

Compton nips Lakewood to clinch tie for title

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

CIF post-season basketball competition doesn't get under way for another two weeks, but Compton High can afford the liberty of thinking ahead.

The Tarbables clinched no worse than a share of the Moore League title Friday afternoon, running their winning streak to six games with an exciting 65-61 victory at Lakewood.

It was Compton's seventh win in eight games. None has come easy.

Lakewood matches up better than any of the other league teams across the front, having the muscle (Dennis Heaton), finesse (Mario Reyes) and rebounding (Guy King) to match the Tarbables' talented trio of Rael Burke, Danrich Jones and Adrian Milow.

For more than three quarters Friday, it appeared the Lakers were well on their way to reversing a one-point setback to the Tarbables in the first round.

Compton never led until Milow sank a soft jumper 2:07 into the fourth quarter to nudge his team ahead, 53-51.

After a bad pass by Heaton, Milow built the margin to four points at 5:25, but fouled out 14 seconds later to end a streak that had seen him score eight points in a row.

But Lakewood couldn't regain the upper hand. The Lakers drew even at 55-55, 57-57, fell behind by four at 63-59, then got back to within two at 63-61 at 0:47 when Larry Overton scored.

Overton tipped the ball away from Derek Davis, who in turn fouled Heaton at 0:34 in a scramble for a loose ball. But Heaton couldn't get his team even; his free throw hit the front rim.

Compton kept the game close by missing free throws of its own on two occasions in a span of 16 seconds, but Lakewood blew its last chance at the 18-second mark when an inbound pass after a timeout went into the backcourt.

Burke (19), Milow (17) and Jones (10) combined to score 48 of Compton's 65 points. Heaton (19), Reyes (14) and King (11) finished with 45. Burke sparked the Tarbables' surge, scoring 13 of his 19 points in the third quarter.

Lakewood fell off to 3-5 in league and 12-12 overall.

Trojans stay alive in title chase, 76-61

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) —

John Lambert poured in 25 points, 17 in the first half, as Southern California coasted to a 76-61 Pacific-8 Conference basketball win over Oregon Friday night.

Lambert, a 6-foot-10 junior, hit 7 of 7 field goal attempts and 3 of 4 foul shots in the first half, guiding the 13th-ranked Trojans to a 37-30 half-time lead.

Six of Lambert's second-half points came shortly after the break as the Trojans built an 18-point lead at 64-46 with 11:47 left to play.

USC's Buff Burrell contained Lee to only eight points in the second half. Oregon struggled to within 12 points with just over five minutes on the clock, but that's the smallest gap the Ducks could produce in the second half.

The win gave the Trojans sole ownership of second place in the Pac-8 with a 6-2 conference record and 17-3 over-all. Oregon dropped to 5-3 in the conference and 11-9 over-all.

High for Oregon was sophomore Ron Lee with 20 points, followed by Greg Ballard with 16.

USC's Buff Burrell contained Lee to only eight points in the second half.

Oregon played the Trojan's guards well but couldn't stop the front line.

It's L.A. State's turn to challenge the 49ers

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

With Long Beach State banned from the NCAA playoffs for three springs, Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. teams have been taking a different attitude about playing the 49ers.

"The kids were up for the game," Fresno State coach Ed Gregory said after Thursday's encounter with the 49ers, "but it was just a fun game for me."

Gregory's "it was just fun" reaction to the 49ers earlier was offered by San Diego State coach Dick Davis and other PCAA coaches.

It is an attitude that miffs 49er coach Lute Olson.

"They don't look like they're having as much fun as we are," says Olson, whose nationally 10th-ranked team has not allowed seven conference opponents to get within 10 points of it.

"I can't see how they can say that," counters Olson. "They'd give anything to get a piece of us. If Fresno beats L.A. State, that's not news, but if they get us, that makes all the wires."

Olson is optimistic that the 49ers are going to continue having fun.

"I'm looking forward to playing L.A. State and so are the kids," Olson said Friday of the team the 49ers challenge tonight in the Diablo gym.

"They'll play basketball with us," continued Olson, "and I'm looking for a loose, wide-open game that everyone will enjoy playing and seeing."

Mayfair, Dons play for crown

Mayfair topped Artesia 71-58 and Cerritos whipped Neff 97-50 Friday night setting up a Suburban League title match Wednesday night.

Cerritos has been beaten only once this season in league, 61-57 by Mayfair.

Friday night the Cerritos Dons broke open a close contest in the second half, scoring 62 points to beat Neff.

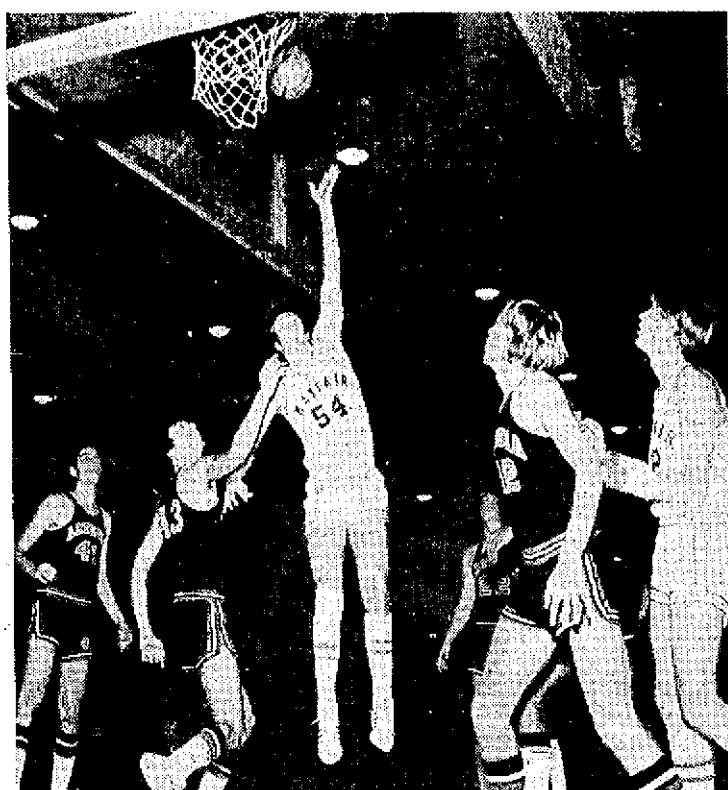

The Dons held a 35-29 halftime lead but exploded for 33 points in the third quarter while holding Neff to five.

Ben Howland led the attack with 25 points while Steve Guderian added 21. Randy Howell (12), Ken Scott (11) and Darrell Hall (10) also scored in double figures for the Dons. Guderian also led Cerritos in rebounds with 10.

Steve Sturgill scored nine of his 19 points in the fourth quarter and Mayfair rattled off the first six points of the last period to help the Monsoons past Artesia. The game was tied 32-32 at halftime but Mayfair scored the last two buckets of the third period to take a 48-44 lead. Sturgill hit eight-of-12 from the field and grabbed 12 rebounds pacing the Monsoons. Frank Spehar added 16, Jeff Haygood 15 and Robbie Gaylord 10 for Mayfair. Rusty Reyes paced Artesia with 17 points while Darrell Lane added 14 and Joe Geist 12.

Mike Van Holland scored 36 points but his team, Glenn, fell to Gahr 72-52.

Wulfmeyer sinks 55

Fountain Valley got a 26-point, 10-rebound performance from Dan Malone, and an unexpected assist from Edison as it clinched the Irvine League title with a 55-45 win over Corona del Mar Friday night.

The Barons, with Malone leading the way, built an eight-point lead in the first quarter, and played the visiting Sea Kings even the rest of the way to grab the win.

Edison's Jeff Clark hit nine-of-11 from the floor, and ended up with 20 points to lead the Chargers attack.

Troy's one-man "Wulfpack," Mark Wulfmeyer, poured in 55 points as the Warriors outlasted Kennedy 89-81 in Freeway League action.

$57,750 Susan's Girl feature Tab Susan's Girl

Susan's Girl can become the all-time leading moneywinner among fillies and mares today with a victory in the $57,750 Santa Maria Handicap at Santa Anita.

Susan's Girl, which will carry 128 pounds as the highweight in the mile and one-sixteenth event, could pass Shuvee's career earnings mark of $890,445 by picking up the $57,750 first place money. Susan's Girl has earned $859,158 in her 42-race career.

Susan's Girl carried 125 pounds a year ago when she defeated Convenience by a half-length in a time of 1:42. Braulio Baeza will be aboard Susan's Girl. Despite her impressive lifetime record, Susan's Girl has not won in three Santa Anita starts this season.

Convenience, a winner of more than $600,000, will return for this year's Santa Maria. Laffit Pincay will be in the saddle, carrying 121 pounds.

Chilean-bred Tizna, who scored a surprise win over Susan's Girl in the seven-furlong Santa Monica Stakes, will be ridden by Fernando Toro, carrying 121 pounds.

Bill Hartack will be aboard Tueria, a winner of five of her 10 starts last year while Don Pierce will ride Veiled Desire and Bill Shoemaker will be on Tallahto. Other entries include Flying Fur, Penny Flight, and Magic Story.

Friday at Santa Anita, stretch-running Cert, narrowly edged by That's Show Biz in the Santa Gertrudes Handicap last week, reversed that decision with a one-length triumph in the featured $13,000 Farmers Fair Purse.

Lagging far back of the swift pace set by the 4-5 favorite Bird Boots, Cert was taken to the outside by jockey Angel Santiago and unleashed a torrid move that took her past the tiring leaders to complete the mile and one-eighth on the grass in 1:47 1/2.

In the Santa Gertrudes, also at nine furlongs on this turf, Cert had to delay her move until a hole opened for her on the inside after which she missed catching That's Show Biz by a nose.

The Florida-bred daughter of Final Ruling had no such trouble Friday, as Santiago booted home his first feature race winner of the meet to pay $6.20, $3.20 and $2.50.

That's Show Biz, who had to withstand a stewards inquiry regarding interference in the stretch before claiming second place, returned $4.40 and $3, and Jubilant paid $3.40 to show.

Donohue bows out with win

Expect sellout tonight as Kings, Boston battle

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Mark Donohue won the final auto race of his career Friday and said, "I had hoped my departure from active competition would be with a victory."

The stocky blond almost broke into tears as he answered questions following his comparatively easy triumph in the final heat of the inaugural International Race of Champions.

"I was hoping the car wouldn't break during the last laps," he said. "I didn't want to have victory snatched away because of a mechanical problem for which I would not be responsible."

With a victory worth $54,000, Donohue admitted he finds it hard to quit. "You don't really appreciate how much racing means until you leave it," the Ivy Leaguer said.

Donohue, 37, will manage the racing teams of Roger Penske. The organization will field teams in three types of racing.

Iron man Bobby Allison captured the first leg of a possible triple victory in Daytona Speed Week when he nursed a 1973 Camaro past a strong field of exotic modified stock cars in the Permatex 200.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Results of Friday's Permatex 200 NASCAR modified road race over a 1.5-mile track, shortened to 150 miles because of the heavy rain, with driver, car make, laps completed and money won:

1. Bobby Allison, Camaro, 47, 56.50
2. Dwyane "Tiny" Lund, Camaro, 47, 33.50
3. J. R. Johnson, Camaro, 46, 22.50
4. Dan Gurney, Camaro, 46, 21.00
5. Gene Bercin, Camaro, 47, 19.00
6. Jerry Doyle, Camaro, 47, 18.00
7. Charles Blair, Camaro, 47, 18.00

When hockey fans think of Boston's Phil Esposito, they probably think of goals, goals and more goals.

The big center of the Bruins, who again is running away with the National Hockey League scoring race, needs just one more point to reach the lofty 1,000 career points mark.

Esposito will continue his assault tonight when Boston's Eastern Division leaders play the Kings in the Forum at 8 o'clock. The Kings' second 16,000 sellout sign this season is expected to be hoisted prior to the opening face-off. In their seven-year history, the Kings have packed the Forum only three times and each time it was for Boston.

Esposito, who has gone over the 100-point mark for the fourth successive year and fifth time in the last six seasons, has not found the Kings' defense easy to penetrate. Phil has managed only one goal in his last eight encounters with L.A.

The Kings have ambushed the Bruins in two of their last three meetings on the Forum ice, including a 4-1 stunner Dec. 29.

The Bruins did not lose a game on the road in January and prior to Friday's match in Vancouver, they have compiled a 12-7-4 record this season away from home.

The Kings have never been much on the road, but they have become practically unbeatable at home. Coach Bob Pulford's skaters are 6-1-1 in their last eight home dates and 9-2-2 since Dec. 1. After winning two games of a four-game road venture, the Kings are back where they started in the NHL West standings. They defeated St. Louis and Atlanta last weekend, but their stay in fourth place didn't last long following successive setbacks at Chicago and Buffalo.

Tonight's match touches off a three-game homestand. The Kings play Vancouver on Tuesday and the New York Rangers Thursday.

Wilson's Scott Shelton turned in his best personal time of year to win 200 individual medley in 2:02.6 Friday in dual meet against Millikan. Millikan's Gerardo Vera, a 1972 Olympic swimmer from Venezuela, was second. Wilson won meet, 90-66.

Wilson opens league season with near-sweep

A 1972 Olympic swimmer, Carlos Azevedo of Brazil, and a 1976 U.S. Olympian hopeful, Tim Shaw, led Wilson High past Millikan 90-66 Friday in the opening dual meet of the Moore League season.

Wilson, defending Moore League champion, lost only one event, the 50 freestyle.

Azevedo won the backstroke (59.2) and swam on the victorious Wilson 200 medley relay team while Shaw won the 200 freestyle (1:43.0) and the 100 freestyle (49.0). In his 200 victory, Shaw defeated Millikan's Gerardo Vera, a 1972 Olympic swimmer from Venezuela, by almost three seconds.

Other strong Wilson performances were turned in by Scott Shelton, who won the 200 IM (2:02.6) and the 100 breaststroke (1:04.3), and sophomore Randy Kalvus, who captured the 100 butterfly (55.0) and the 500 freestyle (4:49.1). Kalvus lowered his best time of the season by one second to nip Vera by four-tenths of a second in the butterfly.

Lakewood High, runner-up to Wilson last season, scored an 108-48 victory over Jordan in the other league meet.

Scott Gordin and Ron Henderson scored double wins for the Lakers with Gordin winning the 200 freestyle (1:50.0) and the 100 backstroke (56.8) while Henderson captured the 50 freestyle (23.7) and the 100 freestyle (53.3).

Moore Leaguers vie in wrestling prelims

Millikan, Jordan and Lakewood high schools will carry Moore League wrestling hopes today in one of four CIF sectional prelims at Westminster High.

An athlete must finish in the first four today in his weight classification to qualify for the CIF finals a week from today at Marina. Day-long competition begins at 10:30 a.m.

Forty-eight schools will be represented at Westminster. The Rams, Panthers and Lakers are the only non-Orange County entrants.

Millikan had six champions, Jordan five and Lakewood two at last week's Moore League finals. El Dorado of the Orange League leads in total number of qualifiers today, 11, representing a league that was allowed to send its first three finishers to the prelims.

The Garden Grove and Irvine were the other leagues allowed three entrants because of strong wrestling programs, the Sunset and Freeway two; the Crestview, Moore and free-lance one each.

49er resume swimming action vs. Occidental

The Long Beach State swimming team, idled for nearly three weeks, resumes action today, hosting Occidental College in a 1 p.m. swimoff in the 49ers' campus pool.

Coach Dick Jochums' charges have not swam competitively since losing to California on Jan. 26. Today's meet, and one next weekend against UC Irvine, are the only ones the 49ers will have before hosting the PCAA championships March 8-9 in Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool.

The 49ers will be reinforced for today's competition by the addition of three redshirt athletes who became eligible at the beginning of the spring semester.

Representing LBSU for the first time today will be Lars Borgeson, a native of Denmark, Dan Matthies, a sophomore transfer from El Camino College, and Craig Putman, a junior transfer from Long Beach City College.

Puzzle of Friday, February 15, Solved

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: This year's progress requires a willingness to contend against competition and adversity with multiple fringe benefits from even the slightest creative effort. Early in the year, relationships are under stress, but later all are relaxed and renewed almost spontaneously. It's up to you to make the first move in every case, however. Today's natives are willing to take extreme risks, should be trained to abstain from involving others in their adventures.

Aries (March 21-April 19): The challenge is to busy yourself sufficiently so that you aren't restless, while leaving your work and its shoptalk out for the day.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Fill your Sunday with social activity. Self-indulgence is the temptation of the day. Govern yourself strictly and stay healthy and happy.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Take your normal share in the Sunday customs. Much more is learned now by listening than by showing off, regardless of how rebellious you feel.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Last minute changes of arrangements are probable, with some people insisting on special interests despite previous promises or schedules.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): If you are strongly assertive, somebody near is apt to turn contrary. Find something to do that does not involve social pressures or overleadership.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Like as not, you're carried off your contemplated line of action by distractions and demands of those around you. Relax and enjoy it.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If very little gets done today, it's all right. Your home benefits from the little chores you can do to keep yourself busy and away from dissension.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Social connections seem inconvenient but worthy of your initiative. You have items of information to pass along, correspondence to catch up.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Pull out of the center of public attention, seek the full attainment of serene home life. Practical economy where it counts.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Talk business—and see what arguments arise! Better to make Sunday a real rest, if you must deal with others, let them be people you haven't seen lately.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A Sunday for quiet formality, remember that those untamable with your habits may not follow your suggestions, are thus not to be relied upon.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Stick to your budget even the if seems to keep you out of some elegant expedition. Social contacts offer their own non-material satisfactions.
